SKINNY KIBBLES

Around And About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

When Alexander Graham Bell invented his method for the electric transmission of speech in 1874, and the magneto-electric telephone in 1875, he started voice transportation on its journey of service to humanity. It has now reached such an altitude of proficiency and indispensability that one would almost as soon think of doing without his daily bread as to do without telephones.

Frequency has minimized our appreciation. We have become so accustomed to the use of the telephone that we depend upon it to do much of our daily toil. And should there be just a momentary delay how irritable and impatient we become. We can think of a damn instantly, but forget to praise for the constantly flowing, uninterrupted service this utility affords. When it comes to an appreciative silence we get 'em all beat. We know we are getting what we pay for, but suppose we weren't getting it?

What aroused my dormant interest in the advancement of this great vocal carrier was a discussion of a new element in the service, designated as conference calling, whereby an executive is able to do collective bargaining of his own. And the same service is available to talk to a number of persons in different localities. I don't make any difference with the service. If within telephone reach the operators will get them for you. For availability and cost reasonability there isn't anything like it. Sounds like a paid ad for the telephone company, but it's only a confession.

Recently I had an opportunity to listen in on a conference call conversation which included several southern California points. It was typical of what the company offers its patrons. To acquaint the audience of how prompt, economical and self-satisfying this service is the hookup was made to include a family group which wanted to give mother the "happy birthday" to you. The call more than compensated as mother invited the family to have Christmas dinner with her. That wasn't the real reason of the conversation. It was to show that you can include an unlimited number in your "conference," and I assume by the same token give the social high hat to the ones you want to leave out.

Executives are now using this method instead of the old personal assembly type, as it is almost immediate, involves no long drives or train rides, and permits district managers to remain at their home offices. The chief gets all the boys on the line and talks turkey or anything else he thinks about, and for this particular line all he is thinking about is business, and it is the business of the telephone company to see that the operators get his calls through with dispatch, and not worry about the neatness. But it is fair assumption that it is a neat trick to complete the call.

When I was a kid reporter for a midwest daily most of my calls were by foot work, and not over a telephone wire, although we had 'em. The personal contact system was preferable, and due to proximity of news sources it wasn't such an inconvenience. You would have to have an army of reporters now if you attempted to get the face to face interview.

I understood that Dean Smith of Los Angeles, was responsible for the technical work which carried the long-distance program to my fading acoustics. But I got most of it even if the technical part was somewhat hazy. My perception of the program, which ranges the programs, and when he included Malcom Macurda in his cast he caught the right trout. That boy's Toastmaster experience is likely to make a Booth or a Mansfield or a Freddie Bartholomew out of him, when it was only intended he should do a little public speaking as a diversion.

Another notable who appeared on the program was the able F. N. Rush, vice-president of the Southern California Telephone company, and the dynamic N. R. Powley, who is the president of one-tenth of the holdings of the Bell Telephone system, which, I grasp, is some job. Both of these

Il Duce's Paper Attacks 'Big Three'

(By the Associated Press)

An Italian press attack on the "big three" democracies—Britain, France and the United States—and British and French moves toward increased military strength were new factors today in the troubled search for European security.

A bitter editorial in Il Popolo D'Italia, Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, accused the three democracies of planning an "economic strangulation" of "have-not" nations—presumably including Italy, Germany and Japan.

The attack, apparently the work of Mussolini himself, seemed directed primarily at pending negotiations between Britain and the United States for reciprocal trade agreement.

The editorial was studded with such phrases as "this democratic noose" . . . "threat of economic war, blockade and starvation" . . . "insulting threats."

To the threat of economic pressure, Il Popolo D'Italia said, "poor words of the name are constrained to respond in the only way possible with timely and wholehearted preparation of spirit and arms."

With French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos on a 17-day tour of the Polish, Czechoslovakian, Rumanian and Yugoslavian capitals bearing a decision by France and Britain not to give Germany "a free hand" in central Europe, there were noteworthy developments in Paris and London regarding war preparedness.

Britain was drastically streamlining her army organization, placing younger men at the top to keep step with "modern developments of warfare." Three of the

16,000 VOLTS KILL WORKMAN

PASADENA. (AP)—Short circuit by a damp rag, 16,000 volts of electricity killed a municipal switching station workman, melting eight huge insulators and left Pasadena without power or light for 12 minutes.

Clarence Graham, 45, was fatally burned by the blinding flash of current late yesterday. Other workers were stunned.

Until an emergency steam plant was put into operation, electric clocks and elevators were stopped and radios silenced throughout the city.

Benjamin Delanty of the switching station said Graham, cleaning the porcelain insulators, was believed to have accidentally let a damp cloth come in contact with one of the switches.

Special Session Gone With Wind

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Congress neared the end of the third week of its special session today without completing any part of President Roosevelt's program.

Debate on the farm bill continued at a leisurely pace in both chambers, causing house leaders to abandon hope of a final vote there this week-end.

Nor was the conclusion of talk by senators in sight. Senator Borah (R., Idaho), unleashed his oratory against the bill at the opening of the day's session.

Boy Flees After Shooting Sister

PASADENA. (AP)—Police and parents sought today 15-year-old Forest McMurray, who wounded his sister with an "empty" gun.

The boy was twirling a .22-caliber pistol in a demonstration for his 11-year-old sister, June, when it fired. A ricocheted bullet struck the girl in the head.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McMurray said the boy apparently was panicked in the belief he killed his sister and fled while they attended her. June's condition is not critical.

Play Ball!

CHARLES MUELLER Ready for Action

Gates to Game Open at 6:15

Gates to Municipal Bowl will open at 6:15 p. m. for the Santa Ana Jaycee vs. San Bernardino tilt, college officials announced today.

The game will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Officials reiterated that there has been no advance in ticket prices, as in all other Jaycee grid games. Admission will be 50 cents this year.

A block of 2000 seats on the east side of the field has been reserved for San Bernardino rooters, and will not be available. Approximately 1500 crowd seats have been set up to care for the overflow, however, increasing the bowl's capacity to approximately 10,000.

S. MAIN ROUTE WORK RUSHED

Six to eight months' work remains on the South Main street extension from Santa Ana to Corona del Mar before the state highway department can pave the new roadway, according to word received today from the WPA office.

WPA crews have been grading and making cuts and fills since Jan. 2, 1936. Total cost of making ready the extension for paving is estimated at $300,000 of which the county as sponsor is to furnish $57,059. The WPA $252,144.

One hundred and fifty men are working at present with five Diesel tractors and other equipment.

It is estimated the new route will save motorists, traveling from coastal points south of Corona del Mar, two and one-half to four miles driving.

Hunt Man 2 Years, Find Him in Jail

Police hunted for James Andrew Orr for two years. They found him in jail.

Orr will be brought back for trial here soon from San Quentin penitentiary, where he was discovered recently serving a term on another charge.

Superior Judge G. K. Seovel signed a court order today for Orr's return to answer to a police complaint filed here Feb. 24, 1936. He is wanted for four counts of forgery and one count of burglary in assertedly breaking into a warehouse near the Santa Fe station.

'Stiff' Stems 500 Dimes for Bail; Blows Town

"Buddy can ya spare a dime for a cuppacawfee?"

Frank Moore, transient, either found 500 buddies who could, or he fell heir to a gold mine.

He was hauled before City Judge J. G. Mitchell Wednesday on a vagrancy charge of soliciting alms. He pleaded guilty, but asked another day before pronouncement of judgment.

As a gesture, Judge Mitchell set bail at $50. Moore readily produced that amount in cash, disappeared, and failed to return yesterday when he was supposed to hear his fate.

The 500 cuppa cawfee were forfeited to the court.

BODY WILL FIGHT LABOR RACKETEERS

Organization Files Papers Today

Announcing their purpose as peaceful protection of employer and laborer and solution of industrial and economic problems, Orange county businessmen today incorporated, hired an executive secretary and opened offices in Santa Ana.

Byron Curry, former county welfare director, will preside over new offices of the association at 305 First National bank building as executive secretary of the businessmen's group.

Campaign for members

Campaigning for voluntary membership, already under way here, will begin soon with meetings in Anaheim, Fullerton, Huntington Beach and Santa Ana.

Scores of business and industrial leaders already are members, the association said.

Directors of the non-profit corporation named in the papers are W. D. Ranney, Allison C. Honer and Herbert L. Miller of Santa Ana, August Edlister of Anaheim and B. W. Robinson of Fullerton.

LABOR NONCOMMITTAL

As the employer group swung into action, county labor leaders were noncommittal. They know little about the association, they said, although an "investigation" was proposed several months ago when it was rumored that employers were organizing to fight the unions.

Denial that the association is antagonistic to labor organizations was contained both in the incorporation articles and in a statement from the group's offices.

"The association," it said, "stands solidly for approved working conditions and a fair wage for honest service. It recognizes the right of labor to organize."

FORD MOTOR STRIKE CALLED

LONG BEACH. (AP)—Eight hundred CIO unionists employed in the Ford Motor company's assembly plant here were pledged today to go out on strike, if one is called by the United Automobile Workers of America.

The strike vote at a mass meeting last night was unanimous, CIO Organizer Richard Coleman said.

The unionists recently returned to work in pre-holiday rush to distribute 1938 models.

Huge Rail Rate Increase Granted

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The interstate commerce commission approved today a $2,500,000 passenger fare increase for Western railroads.

The increase will become effective in 10 days.

The principal boost is in basic Pullman car fares which will be raised from 2 cents per mile to 2 1/2 cents per mile.

The new rates will mean increases in transcontinental fares since travel costs between New York and San Francisco, for instance, depend in part on the Western rates.

Tax Drive Blocked By New Deal Aid

WASHINGTON. — The trouble with the congressional drive for immediate amputation of the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes is that while it has plenty of will, it lacks a way.

If the senate could get at the two taxes it would cut them up so fast it would make your head swim for there is overwhelming sentiment for revision instantly, if not for outright repeal. But the rub is that the senate has no immediate say-so in the matter.

NEW ROAD RULE PLANNED GETS $24,800

More Power for Commission Asked

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Plans for broad changes in organization, authority and duties of the highway commission, through a constitutional amendment sponsored by the California State Automobile association and the Automobile Club of Southern California, were announced today.

The organizations planned to place the proposed amendment on the general election ballot next November as an initiative measure.

A principal provision would be for a full-time salaried highway commission of five members in complete charge of state highway affairs, including not only construction, maintenance and allocation of funds, but law enforcement and promotion of traffic safety on the highways as well.

Another provision would provide for transfer of the California highway patrol from the department of motor vehicles to the new highway commission.

The announcement said the proposed new highway commission would occupy a position comparable to that of the railroad commission.

BAN BRAZIL POLITICS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil. (AP)—President Getulio Vargas, who under a newly drafted constitution rules Brazil with broad powers, today decreed the dissolution of all political parties, Vargas, ineligible under the old constitution to run again for the presidency in the election which would have been held in January, 1938, proclaimed the new regime on Nov. 10.

Obscure Language Halts Trial of Locano Speaker

In the words of Charles Carrillo, court interpreter, Frank Olivas "comes from the wrong end of the island." Nobody speaks his language.

Olivas' arraignment before Judge Allen on charges of two sex crimes against a 1-year-old Anaheim girl was postponed today, until Carrillo locates a Filipino who speaks Locano, one of the island's many native dialects.

Olivas told Superior Judge James L. Allen he didn't speak English. He told Carrillo he didn't speak Spanish.

"Your honor," said Carrillo after jabbering briefly at the bewildered defendant, "it looks like he comes from the wrong end of the island."

1 Killed, 4 Injured During Shanghai 'Victory Parade'

SEEKS DEATH FOR 85 DAYS

Vermin-Covered Man Found in Culvert

SAN JOSE. (AP)—Roy Rogers, who crawled into a dark culvert 85 days ago hoping to die, started out today in quest of a job and the beginning of a new life.

The 32-year-old former contractor of Corpus Christi, Texas, was covered with crawling vermin, half-starved, bearded and filthy when sheriff's deputies rescued him yesterday from the culvert where he said he hoped he would catch pneumonia and die. He wanted to die, Rogers said, because his wife was unfaithful.

His outlook on life was changed by a bath, a shave, a haircut, clean clothes, the warmth of a fire in the jail stove, and the first real meal he had eaten in nearly three months.

Sheriff George W. Lyle said Rogers' world had toppled about him a year ago when he discovered his wife was intimate with a friend of the family. Rogers, Lyle reported, said he shot the friend and then was sent to a hospital for the insane. The man he shot recovered from the wound, Rogers said, and of his wife while he was in the asylum.

Released, he wandered aimlessly until, Lyle quoted him, "I decided I wanted to die."

Rogers crawled into the culvert under the Monterey highway. There he lived for months waiting for death. But hunger repeatedly became a greater power than the desire for death and he crept out of his sunless home and ate food, usually tomatoes, taken from nearby fields.

BOOKIE SHOPS BURGEON HERE

Bookie shops sprang up like mushrooms in Orange county today.

Santa Ana had three "forwarding" agencies which transmit bets to Tanforan; one shop was ready for opening in Fullerton; and work was under way on a similar establishment in Huntington Beach.

Two new "legal bookie" shops will open tomorrow in Santa Ana, in addition to the California Forwarding agency, 416 West Fourth street, which has been open several weeks.

New arrivals on the racing-by-remote-control scene here were the Reliable Forwarding agency, 310 Bush street, and the Santa Ana Forwarding agency, 204 1/2 East Fourth street, room 207.

Fullerton's agency was not yet open, because of police threats to padlock it. Santa Ana police have been silent since an attempt by the "bookies" to interfere with the first lap of a monthly contest.

The Huntington Beach agency was being prepared at 408 Ocean avenue, with carpenters at work remodeling the interior.

Santa's Toys to Make Less Noise

KANE, Pa. (AP)—More practical toys that make less noise will be taken by Santa Claus this year from his factories in this snow-bedecked western Pennsylvania timberland.

"Educational toys" was the description given them by William T. Henretta, manufacturer and pioneer in the field of "educational play." He explained:

"Until recent years, play material for children six years of age or older.

"Now there is an increased appreciation of toys for children of the pre-school age. These are designed to develop control of their little fingers and hands, coordination of hand and eye, discrimination of color and size and shape."

BARKER CHIEF QUILTS

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Paul Quattlander, president of Barker Brothers since 1935, resigned his position today due to ill health, the department store directors announced today.

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Japanese troops bowed to United States Marine command today and retired from American-guarded sections of the international settlement, as a grenade explosion disrupted a Japanese victory march and an American business man was attacked by a group of Japanese officers.

The American, Vaughan Read, was injured in the face by the officers, who punched him because he refused to move.

"I was walking peacefully along like a law-abiding, self-respecting American, with certain rights," Read said, "when a Japanese officer, shouting, 'Get out!' poked me in the back. Well, nobody is going to handle me like that, so I hauled off and socked him in the mouth."

"He went down for the count. Then another officer tackled me, and I hit him on the nose. Then they all pounded me on the head and struck my eyeglasses, but it didn't hurt me."

Read said there were eight soldiers in the group.

The entire city was dangerously tense tonight, after the violent events of the day.

The hand grenade, hurled by a Chinese student, momentarily broke the ranks of 6000 marching Japanese as they neared the Wing On department store in Nanking road.

Immediately after the explosion Japanese troops, with gleaming bayonets, surrounded and cleared an area of some 30 blocks around the scene. Because a portion of the American business sector was included, a vigorous American protest came immediately. The Japanese yielded and withdrew from that section.

The grenade thrower was shot dead on the spot by a Chinese policeman, member of the settlement's force.

Three Japanese soldiers, one Japanese consular policeman and a British police inspector were wounded.

Amid a flurry of panic, a Chinese threw himself from a tall building into the street in patriotic martyrdom.

The Japanese troops, conveyed by tanks and with airplanes overhead, broke for shelter.

Gaining sidewalks, excitedly they peered at the scene of the building, both sides of the street as if expecting further volleys.

Thousands of Japanese civilians lined the streets, waving flags.

SIX WINNERS IN PHONE RACE

Because they grab telephones faster than several score other radio listeners, six persons today were rewarded with a free month's subscription to The Journal.

Telephones clanged a Christmas carol in The Journal office yesterday afternoon and last night as Tom Danson, Journal news editor, conducted the first lap of a monthly contest.

The first three persons to telephone the office, said Danson on KVOE twice yesterday, would get a free month's subscription. It sounded like a good idea to a good many listeners.

Champion telephone grabbers for this month are:

Mrs. Orivel DuRall, 420 South Garnsey street; C. E. Hart, 414 West Walnut street; Barbara Doyle, 1201 North Sycamore street; Andrew Turnbull, 408 South Flower street; N. R. Forbes, 418 South Broadway, and a Mr. Davis, who raises turkeys, he said, on West Seventeenth street.

3 Bronx Cheers For Congress!

That's what one Journal reader snorts today after considering the antics of the boys in Washington over the proposal to chop down those famous Japanese cherry trees.

There's a definite need for outspoken public talking and thinking on public matters.

MOVIE STRUCK COWBOY SHOT

Film Extra Held as Murder Suspect

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Albert DuBois, 35, transient artist and film extra from Birmingham, Ala., was jailed here today on suspicion of murdering a movie-struck farmer, William Williamson, 32, of Jefferson City, Mo.

Sheriff's Capt. William Penrose said DuBois confessed he shot Williamson "for no good reason" during an alcoholic spree Wednesday night.

The Missourian, who recently bought a flashy cowboy outfit, had asked him for help in getting a job in wild west pictures, DuBois related.

A missing automobile hub cap furnished the clue that resulted in DuBois' arrest for the crime a few hours after Williamson's body, shot in the back of the head, was found sprawled at the edge of Valley boulevard in outlying El Monte.

Gilbert Crandall told officers he heard a shot and reached the scene in time to see a fleeing sedan lose one hub cap. DuBois was taken in custody by Ontario police early Thursday on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

BORAH BLASTS FARM BILL

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Senator Borah (R., Idaho), criticized the senate farm bill today, saying it would impose "punishment" on farmers who failed to sign adjustment contracts.

Borah told his colleagues the measure would provide a complete "bureaucratic control" over the farmer and would entail "the reduction of crops at a time when there are millions of hungry and needy persons in the country."

In the house leaders there abandoned plans to complete consideration of the house farm bill by tomorrow night. Chairman Jones (D., Texas) of the agriculture committee, said he expected debate to continue "at least three or four days more."

Sex Criminal Scored by Judge

With a scathing blast from Superior Judge James L. Allen ringing in his ears, Ernest J. Hansen, 34-year-old sailor, turned his eyes toward Folsom prison today, where, he says, a handful of desperate men wait to slip a knife between his ribs.

Judge Allen pronounced sentence on the stocky blond seaman today, sending him to prison for from two to 100 years on two counts of sex crimes against Newport Beach girls 12 and 14 years old.

"Your crime is as bad as the murder of those two little Inglewood girls. In one respect, I think those girls are better off, because their troubles are behind them. These two are just beginning to face their troubles."

Hansen was accused by the judge of lying on the stand, attempting to blacken the young victims' characters by innuendo, and "faking" his prison vengeance story to get sympathy.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

(Continued From Page 1) officials stressed the service rendered, more than the personal equation which created it. But were not unkind or unappreciative of the employee side.

The world today in its rush of business, with its social and economic complex and ramifications, knows little of the debt of gratitude it owes to Alexander Bell, the inventor, and his contribution to mankind. For the telephone has brought the world together, abbreviates your transactions, brings you joy or sorrow over its singing wires, answers the call of distress, always available, and dependable. We can only appreciate the extent of its service by trying to visualize what would happen if we tried to get along without it.

Profitable crops cannot generally be grown without irrigation where the annual rainfall is less than 15 inches.

WOMAN LAWYER IN CLASH You Guess Who Was Winner

A verbal clash between William P. Webb, Anaheim attorney, and Alberta Belford, pretty brunette assistant from the attorney general's office, marked court procedure yesterday as Anaheim's "frozen fruit" case dragged on.

Miss Belford was questioning Jack Prizer, Placentia citrus house manager, called as a witness in the trial of Ed Mills, Jerry Miller and the Western Fruit Growers, charged with shipping frost-damaged oranges in violation of state law.

Webb, objecting to state's questions, snapped something unintelligible at Miss Belford.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Harold McCabe jumped to the rescue.

"Oh," retorted the woman attorney, "he isn't help it. He was probably born that way."

"I'd answer that," Webb barked, "but there seems to be a member of the weaker sex here."

Seconds later the courtroom got back to normal. The case, which opened last week, showed no signs of completion until some time next week.

JAPAN TROOPS ATTACK YANK

Chinese and Japanese alike scattered.

Then a British lawyer, E. T. Matland, formerly advocate of the Shanghai Municipal Police, added to the tension by breaking the staff of a Japanese flag across his knee.

Japanese troops, he said, molested him. British police took him under guard.

During an impromptu conference outside the department store where the bombing occurred, a representative of General Iwane Matsui, Japanese commander at Shanghai, and police Commissioner F. W. Gerrard agreed to the terms of settlement of the incident.

All Japanese troops and gendarmes were withdrawn from the department store district and the Shanghai Municipal Council was to undertake to deal with the incident itself.

As a precaution against possible Japanese invasion, French troops were placing sandbag redoubts and barbed wire barriers in the Sincan area, driving the French Concession from Nantao, occupied by the Japanese.

The Japanese withdrew from the American section of the British-American guarded international city at the insistence of Col. Charles F. B. Price, commander of the United States Fourth Marines.

His action possibly prevented disaster, for the parade had been held over protests of American and other officials and there was tension in the settlement.

Tokyo Zoo Put on War-Time Diet

TOKYO. (American Wire)—Carnivorous animals at the Tokyo zoo were on a new diet today as a result of wartime economies.

A wolf who formerly lived on horseflesh has been put on a diet of sardines and vegetables, and the meat rations of the lion and lioness are being cut down. Fish is being served to these monarcs of the jungle as a partial substitute and experiments will be made with the traditional Japanese fare, boiled rice and vegetables.

The change from the meat diet will prove beneficial to the animals and eliminate some of the parasites that now bother them, the two expert dieticians in charge of their feeding declared.

A change in foods for humans, particularly foreigners, was forecast by the publication of a list of over 200 articles that can be longer be imported. Canned foods, bottled beverages, cosmetics, perfumes, toilet articles and clothing will be scarcer. Wine, coffee and cheese are still on the permitted list.

Possesses Liquor Buried in 1873

CALGARY. (American Wire)—Experts who like rare old liquors would probably like to be friends with H. "Casey" Oliver. He has a bottle of whisky at least 64 years old. He obtained it from beneath a police post flagpole in 1913 where it had been buried since 1873, when a prohibition law was in force.

"HOT CLUB BURNS" HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—A fire, which police said probably was caused by a cigarette, did damage estimated at $15,000 early today in the Swing Club, a film center night spot.

GERMANS IN NEW ORIENT PEACE MOVE

NANKING. (AP)—Reports of German efforts to mediate in the Chinese-Japanese conflict were strengthened today when it was learned that Dr. Oskar Trautman, the German ambassador, had paid a flying visit to Nanking during which it was understood he talked with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

A formidable Japanese air squadron bore down on Nanking today, managed to break through the defense of Chinese pursuit planes and bomb a Chinese airbase and railway lines near the city.

A tour of Nanking and its environs showed great Chinese preparations for a fight to the finish for this almost deserted capital. New troops were moving to outlying positions, new trenches and barricades were being prepared while engineers were preparing to blow up important bridges at the enemy's approach.

All signs indicated the Chinese command had adopted a "scorched land and broken line" policy and was seeking to nullify that section of the Versailles treaty which forbids France to fortify her Swiss frontier. Daladier told the chamber of deputies last night that conversations with Switzerland for that end had been "going on for a year."

The defense minister's disclosure was a response to a declaration by Deputy Rene Burtin that there was "grave menace" of a German attack on France across the northern tip of Switzerland on a flank of the French Maginot line of steel and concrete fortifications.

The Versailles treaty, at the request of Switzerland, "forever" prohibited fortification of the Franco-Swiss frontier.

Delbos, seeking to solidify French alliances with Poland and the Little Entente, stopped off at Berlin en route to Warsaw and had a cordial 15-minute chat with German Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath. They talked at the station in the presence of French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet.

Slump Not Felt Yet in England

LONDON. (American Wire)—Slackening of industrial activity in other countries has not yet affected England, where the employment and business level is being well maintained, the latest report of the Federation of British Industries states. The rise in the price of goods and the setback for business in the United States, however, were viewed as "unsettling influences."

Headlight Keeps Slanted at Road

WASHINGTON, D. C. (American Wire)—An auto headlight that tilts to shine at the correct angle on the road regardless of the slope has been invented by Paul Astorg of Berkeley, the patent office revealed. The lights point down when the car climbs so the lights can never shine in an oncoming motorist's eyes.

Judges' Wigs—Stealer Jailed

LONDON. (American Wire)—It doesn't pay to steal from judges, at least when the loot is something so personal as wigs. Joseph Pearce faced two months imprisonment today because he was convicted of stealing three judge's wigs.

Tax Committee Plans Amendment

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A house tax subcommittee talked today of recommending either a constitutional amendment, or legislation to permit the federal government to tax $14,854,000,000 of state and municipal securities and to allow state and municipal governments to tax $35,548,000,000 of federal securities.

The reciprocal arrangement, Chairman Vinson (D., Ky.) said, also might be extended to $100,000,000 of territory and insular possession securities.

Whaddaya Mean 'Become' Hot House Beauties?

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—The lovely lilies of the screen are liable to be re-gilded in the near future, Cosmetician Max Factor ominously predicted today.

It's all a result of the trend to thinner make-up materials, some so transparent that skin blemishes are plainly revealed. With the increase of color films, light stains instead of heavy grease-paint are an absolute necessity, Factor said.

"It's becoming harder than ever to disguise the effects of outdoor exercise—sunburn and windburn," he added.

"Film players may have to become hothouse beauties."

PANCHEN LAMA DEATH VICTIM

LONDON. (AP)—The Reuters (British) news agency reported today that the Panchen Lama, ranking spiritual ruler of Tibet, had died in Western China after 13 years of exile from his so-called "forbidden land."

The dispatch, from New Delhi, India, said the 54-year-old Lama died Tuesday at the town of Jyekundo. He died in 1924 from the mysterious plateau land after differences with his secular superior, the Dalai Lama, who died in December, 1933.

Since the Dalai's death the priests of Lamaism, a form of Buddhism, have been seeking as his successor, a child born at the moment of his death in the belief his spirit was reincarnated in the infant.

There was a report last July that such a child had been found but it was not confirmed.

Bumper Designed To Protect Cows

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (American Wire)—Cows with bumpers to protect them from head-on collisions is envisioned by James A. Caldwell here. Caldwell has just received a patent on a bumper to be suspended from the horns.

G-MAN CLAIMS BIG 'DIVIDEND'

NEW YORK. (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, today announced "dividends" to taxpayers of $7 for every dollar spent on the bureau.

He said that during the last four years the cost of operating the F. B. I. amounted to a little more than $18,000,000, while it was able to return "in savings, in fines and in recoveries of stolen goods a total of more than $135,000,000, or more than $118,000,000 above what it costs to operate the bureau."

Hoover addressed the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. He took occasion to attack parole systems (excluding the federal), the failure of police units to cooperate in the collection of statistical data and criminal records, jail conditions, shyster lawyers, venal politics, "kid glove treatment" of criminals and other weak spots in the American scene of police and court activity.

McGuire Hanged For Baker Death

FOLSOM. (AP)—Charles McGuire, 21, was executed here today for the murder of Max Krall, Sacramento baker, in a holdup Dec. 20, 1936.

The trap was spring at 10:03 and he was dead at 10:15 a. m. It was the first hanging under the wardenship of Clyde I. Plummer who took over the management of the prison 13 days ago.

The execution was out of sight and hearing of the five convicts awaiting sentence Monday for the murder of Warden Clarence A. Larkin.

Tammany Leader Quits Clerk Job

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Albert Marinelli, Tammany leader today submitted his resignation as New York county clerk to Governor Herbert H. Lehman in the face of charges by Republican Prosecutor-Elect Thomas E. Dewey that he is unfit for office.

Marinelli sent his letter to the governor two days after he was called upon to answer the charges that he was "a political ally of racketeers, harbored a federal fugitive, and consorted with known criminals."

P. O. BEGINS PIG CENSUS

The findings of a pig census which the post offices in Orange county started today may indicate whether pork prices are to be raised or lowered in the future.

With the objective of determining the number of hogs to be raised for next year's market, postmen in this county today were distributing "census cards" to approximately 160 hogs raisers who own nearly 25,000 animals.

The census is part of a nationwide count, and as Orange county raisers are receiving their blanks, 750,000 other producers in the United States are also getting the same cards.

"Skinny" Skirvin, after reading his own column in last night's Journal about the Tustin barbecue, says he wonders if it was the result of a nervous indigestion, or whether he was in town that day. The barbecue is to be held Wednesday noon, Dec. 8, and "Skinny" started out with the right day, but slipped over into the next one in commenting upon it being a ladies' day. He says if his pals wait until Thursday to go to the barbecue they won't get anything to eat, and advises the "gang" to congregate at the Wol-

Xmas Gifts Crowd Mail

Christmas mailing is beginning at the Santa Ana post office, according to Postmaster Frank Harwood, who said today the volume of packages leaving the post office has shown a marked upturn in the past few days.

From early indications it appears that Christmas mailing this year will be in greater volume than last year.

Christmas mail to foreign countries has been underway for several months. One package destined for an out-of-the-way part of South Africa was sent last summer.

CARRIERS GET FAN MAIL IN CONTEST

More than fifty Santa Ana Journal carriers are daily receiving fan mail from their customers concerning prompt and efficient delivery service which extends to all parts of Santa Ana and Orange county. The communications are not only pleasing the boys, but they also mean extra points to the lads in the circulation contest now being conducted.

Here are a few samples taken at random from the many letters received at The Journal office:

"We take three daily papers and the Journal is invariably the closest to the front door every night," writes John McLain of 408 Harvard Place relative to Paper Carrier Earl Gibson. "In seven months we haven't missed an issue of the Journal."

From Fred L. Bonner at Garden Grove comes the following comment: "I wish to compliment our carrier boy, Nyle Rylance, a faithful employee having given us excellent service. Let me also say I like The Journal and its policies."

Says Mrs. L. E. Ross of her Journal carrier: "For about two years The Journal has never failed to arrive, it is always placed with in easy reach and never through with unnecessary noise against the house."

"Beyond all doubt Randolph Clark tops all the paper carriers in efficiency, courtesy and accommodation which we have ever had," states James Mangold. "On several occasions while watering the lawn, Randolph has handed The Journal to me preventing it from getting wet and giving me the opportunity of reading while working."

"Sidney Gottlieb has not failed once in putting my Journal on the porch," A. J. Powelson of 501 Sixth street says in telling of the friendly Journal delivery service.

"It is a pleasure to have our very gentlemanly paper carrier, Dexter Ball, come to our home to collect," Mrs. G. Stumpf of 824 N. Ross street writes The Journal.

"Clair Rawley has delivered my paper regularly, and promptly," Jesse Bolton of 1900 Standard avenue says. "If The Journal does not land on the porch, Warren Danielson gets off his bicycle and places it there," M. A. Garvin of 310 S. Parton writes.

From "The Culbertsons" at 310 W. Second street comes word that Bishop Patterson, another Journal carrier, places The Journal each evening at the door to their home.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. KOBB

Every business man of California should be for the Townsend plan out of interest in the success of his own business if nothing else. And particularly every real estate man should be for it. Talk about boosting for one's own interests—if there's any better way of doing it than boosting for the Townsend plan then the writer would like to hear about it. Some day bankers, merchants, farmers and wage earners will discover that the plan to help everybody else succeeded.

All over America there are countless men and women who have longed for the privilege of someday living in California, but finances have made it continuously impossible. According to the 1930 national census there were 10,585,026 men and women in the United States who at that time were 50 years of age or older. If the Townsend plan should become the law of the nation the major portion of these elderly people would qualify for the generous annuities of the plan and that would result in a tremendous volume of money being put with monthly regularity in circulation. With the spending power of the Townsend annuities in their possession for the balance of their life assured them there would be many of these folks who would come to California to spend their last days.

These folks would bring with them the spending power of the Townsend annuities which added to the ones already residing here would almost overnight create the most potential market for real estate, particularly in the form of homes, that was ever experienced in this state. The best part of it would be that there wouldn't be any question about the capability of this group of buyers. When they contracted to pay so much a month toward the purchase of a home there wouldn't need be any fear about their capability of carrying out the terms of the contract as there would be the permanence of the Townsend annuity to back up their contracted obligation. If such a condition wouldn't be a Utopia for real estate men then this writer has got his wires crossed.

These elderly people would not only buy homes they would buy automobiles, household furniture, clothing, they would attend places of amusement and make benevolent contributions to churches they would patronize dentists, doctors and opticians and the money which business people would make, would in turn be spent in the channels of trade, employment would be provided for younger folks in producing the things which the elderly would buy and the wages which the employed would earn would add to the momentum of the business prosperity being experienced.

What a land of promise California became the law of the land. The people would come by the thousands and there wouldn't be any patrol officers at the state line to hold them back. Instead, money would be spent for advertising, telling of the virtues of Southern California climate for the aged. With the Townsend plan in operation there wouldn't be any need of the national government appropriating huge sums for housing purposes but the real money in circulation would start the biggest and longest continued building boom ever experienced by any country in the entire history of the world. Again the writer says that every business man of California should be for the Townsend plan out of interest in his own business success if for no other reason.

Fullerton club No. 2 is meeting at 6:30 tonight in the recreation room of the California hotel at 301 North Spadra to enjoy a pot-luck dinner according to Walter Schulz, club president. The plan is to have a speaker present.

Orange club No. 2 will meet in the Townsend club building at 149 South Glassell street at 7:30 tonight with Mrs. Abbie Gould, president in charge. C. A. Holloway, president of Santa Ana club No. 9 announces that the meeting tonight will be held in the Edison school on East St. Gertrude street by 7 o'clock. It is the intention to hold all meetings in the school house hereafter. Santa Ana clubs Nos. 10 and 11 and 1 are dismissing their usual weekly meetings so that all may attend the Orange county Townsend bazaar and fair. So all members will please be present at the bazaar tonight. Santa Ana club No. 3 is serving hot tamales all day tomorrow at the bazaar for a reasonable charge. There's your chance to get some mighty good eats.

The department of commerce estimates national lumber consumption for 1937 to be 24,000,000,000 feet, a gain of about 5 per cent over the previous year.

FAULT LINES CAUSE SLIDE

An earth slide like the one in Elysian park, Los Angeles, "could" happen in nearly any part of Southern California, Prof. H. A. Scott, Santa Ana Junior college geology instructor, indicated today, but predicting a certain spot where it is most likely to occur would be like "guessing exactly where the next earthquake will strike."

Scott said a slide is possible wherever a steep slope is situated on a minor fault line, and indicated Southern California is well broken into these minor fault blocks. Though many minor faults have been mapped by geologists, the slant of others still is unknown.

"Water seepage could be a major factor in an earth slide if it tended to loosen the soil in a fault line," Scott explained. "But that is only one of many factors that would make a slide possible."

No major slides have occurred in Orange county in historic times, the geologist said, but there is evidence of "moving mountains" in some nearby areas in earlier days.

Twenty Acre Grove Brings $50,000

Twenty acres of eight-year-old orange trees valued at $50,000 changed hands late yesterday when C. E. Stockton traded his grove located near his home at 508 Bristol to a Mr. Shirk of LaVerne.

Business property belonging to Shirk at Long Beach was involved in the transaction. Shirk plans to turn the grove here over to his son who is a teacher at Long Beach.

Stockton planted the orchard here yesterday. He announced that he and his wife will continue to make their home in this vicinity, according to his present plans.

U. S. BUYING PLANE ENGINES

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The war department approved today three contracts for 281 airplane engines costing nearly $2,500,000.

Two contracts with the Wright aeronautical corporation, Paterson, N. J., involved the purchase of 238 motors at a total cost of $2,044,490.

A third contract, with the United Aircraft corporation, East Hartford, Conn., covered the purchase of 43 14 cylinder engines and spare parts. Total cost was $447,328.

One purchase from the Wright corporation was for 159 nine cylinder cyclone motors delivering more than 1000 horsepower each. They will be installed in the new "flying fortress" Boeing Bombers being built for the air corps.

The second contract is for 82 nine cylinder engines, 55 of which will be used in as many planes built by North American Aviation, Inc., Inglewood, Calif., for the national guard.

The 43 engines bought from the United Aircraft corporation will be installed in attack planes being constructed by the Northrup corporation, Inglewood, Calif.

Senator's Talks Good for Insomnia

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Senator Ashurst (D-Ariz.) recommended reading of his speeches today as the ideal cure for insomnia.

A visitor to the capitol asked Ashurst for his autograph, but he refused to sign except in pen and ink, which was not available.

"Write to my office," Ashurst told the visitor. "I'll not only send you my autograph but the greatest thing for insomnia you ever had—a set of my speeches in pamphlet form."

NYA DROPS 28 STUDENTS

Twenty-eight students have been dropped from the rolls of the National Youth Administration at Santa Ana Junior college because of deficient grades, Calvin C. Flint, jaycee NYA director, announced today.

Checking of grades of NYA workers is done twice a semester, and those below the standards are dropped, Flint stated. This semester's total of those dropped is about one-fifth of the total number now on NYA at the present time, Flint said. Last year approximately the same percentage of workers were taken off because of low grades.

The director revealed that students on NYA must maintain at least 12½ units of "C's" and can only get one grade below a "C" in order to stay on the rolls. This is higher than a "C" average.

The federal government's attitude in assisting needy students has changed in the last year in that those who are worthy are given aid as well as to those who are needy financially.

Students are given clerical work, typing, janitor jobs, and many other miscellaneous duties on NYA. Each instructor at the college is helped by a NYA worker.

'DEVIL'S ISLE' ADVOCATED BY MERRIAM

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—The state board of prison terms and paroles today advocated in its annual report to Governor Merriam drastic prison reform including construction of a "devil's island" for the toughest convicts.

The board said the recent attempted break at Folsom showed the need for reorganization of the state's system for handling felons. "Folsom prison," the report stated, "is one of the largest prisons in the United States. San Quentin being the largest, in the point of population."

"While it is true that most repeated offenders and incorrigibles are confined at Folsom, the prison population is too large to be subjected to the rigorous discipline and extreme guarding desirable for the dangerous minority, nor does the population as a whole warrant or require it."

Prison officials, the report said, "acknowledge that a convict with more time than he can do" is a dangerous criminal, "willing to risk his life in any desperate bid for freedom."

These class of prisoners, the report continued, present a special problem of discipline and guarding which officials of prisons find it difficult to meet in a large institution having many other types of inmates.

"In addition," the report declared, "the presence of these incorrigible or vicious criminals, is an inevitable source of corruption and contamination of the younger accidental first offenders who make up the major part of our inmate population at San Quentin, and of the relatively harmless bad check passers and habitual petty thieves who constitute such a large part of Folsom prison."

"Daily contact with hardened, experienced and desperate criminals is the worst possible environment in which to attempt to rehabilitate a man. All too frequently the harmless, accidental offender is more dangerous to society when released than when he was when committed to prison."

Parking Problem Even Bothers King George

LONDON. (AP)—Royal prerogatives do not embrace special parking privileges, King George has decided, weeks after taxi drivers, police and the Duchess of Kent brought the problem into the limelight.

On Oct. 14, police forced taxi drivers to desert their stand in front of a smart West End night club because the Duchess of Kent, dining inside, had parked her car outside. The cabbies protested by driving slowly around the West End, virtually stalling traffic.

King George, it was disclosed today, held that his royal relatives will have to take their chances on finding a parking space unless they are on official missions.

Spain Defenders Force Back Foes

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish frontier. (AP)—Spanish government infantrymen were reported today to have driven their insurgent foe from several small elevated positions in the Ebro river sector south of Zaragoza, on the middle Aragon front.

A communique from the government capital, Barcelona, said the engagement permitted the government forces to straighten their lines and establish communications between outposts.

The clash was one of several encounters between small sections of the rival armies on the Aragon and Central Spanish fronts.

State Board Member Freed

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Milton A. Huot, attorney and former employee of the state board of equalization, was free today on a charge of bribery.

Huot was acquitted by a jury late yesterday shortly after Superior Judge A. A. Scott ruled the defendant could not have been bribed to produce a wine sales permit for a cafe since he had no authority to recommend or grant such a permit.

Complaining witness against Huot was Mrs. Agnes T. O'Brien, cafe owner, seeking a permit.

Find Body of Hit-Run Victim

EL CENTRO. (AP)—Apparently killed by a hit-run motorist, the body of an unidentified Mexican about 25 years of age was found on Mountain Springs grade, near the San Diego county line, the coroner's office reported today.

W. C. Bryant of 894 Eighth avenue was the first to discover the body. Papers indicated the victim's last name may have been "Guerrero."

Strawberries Bring High Bid

WAUCHULA, Fla. (AP)—Two "first pints" of Florida's winter strawberry crop have been sold for a total of $5.50.

J. H. Dulaney of Salisbury, Md., bought one pint at public auction here for $3, and another at Palmto for $2.50.

The current crop is expected to bring $3,000,000. First shipments will start this week-end.

Breath of the South

John W. Keresey, nephew of the late Judge Egan, enjoys the fragrance of a sprig of mint from old Virginia long since transplanted in the gardens of Harmony House at San Juan Capistrano.

By C. K. PRIEST

When the moon comes over the mountain and there is a blue haze on the rolling hills here that carries memories back to Old Virginia, a visitor strolling in the garden of Harmony Hall, within a stone's throw of the famous mission, might easily find himself enveloped in a strange aroma of mint.

There are, it is said, a number of clumps of this fragrant herb, all sprung from the parent mint bed at Harmony Hall, in secluded spots close to the homes of old San Juan Capistrano residents. The use to which they are put today is conjectural, but in the beginning they owed their existence to a much-traveled man who a half-century ago brought the original plants from Virginia to the home he had made for himself here.

According to the tradition, Judge Richard Egan already had led a more than ordinarily colorful life when he settled in San Juan Capistrano. A native of Ireland, one story has it that he was captured in a Civil War blockade running attempt, and so became a resident of Virginia. It is certain that he had traveled widely before he came West, and it is also certain that he had acquired appreciation of the peculiarly satisfying qualities of a Virginia mint julep.

He had one rule to which he adhered religiously—he never permitted himself a glass before eleven o'clock in the morning. The next deadline was in mid-afternoon, and in the evening circumstances altered cases. He was not a drinking man in the common sense of the word.

The house that he built and named Harmony Hall became noted for its hospitality throughout Southern California. The celebrities of his time were guests beneath his roof. Mrs. Modjeska, Henry Huntington, there is hardly a name of note that can be mentioned in that period that has not at one time or another been associated with Harmony Hall.

Under his hand what has been known as the Independent State of San Juan Capistrano took shape and flourished. He maintained a Court of Justice and a Justice Court, in the one dispensing law, in the other, justice. His law books remain in the high-ceilinged house. He was also an engineer and his geodetic work ranked high.

MEASLES IN SHANGHAI. (AP)—An epidemic of measles contributed new distress today in war-ridden Shanghai. Medical authorities said there had been 154 deaths to date and appealed for help in caring for 5000 children in refugee camps who were threatened by the disease.

Nazi's Cold to Her

Marlene Dietrich, glamorous screen star, said the Nazis didn't like her any more, as she arrived in New York, as above, from a trip abroad. Nazis called her a traitor to her native Germany because she sought American citizenship.

PLANE SOLVES GOLD FIELD PROBLEMS

By HARRY CRAFT

Gold that is guarded by the four-mile-high Bolivian Andes mountains in South America poured out from the depths of a "jungle valley" to the throne of the mighty Inca kings. So inaccessible was the site, so treacherous the only pass through the Andean peaks that only slave labor could make the project go. Stories are still current in the folklore of the little valley of how, at the echoing snap of flesh-breaking lashes, hordes of slaves gathered the little nuggets into back-breaking packs and toiled over the formidable mountain pass to the halls of the Incas in far-off Peru. With the end of slavery came the end of the "golden river." And through the past 200 years the gold trail has been lost.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM

Today, the labor problem in this great gold mine is far less serious than transportation. The llama, the beast of burden of the high Andes, will lie down in its tracks if more than 60 pounds is loaded on its back. Even the "super-charged" burros were not qualified for this job. A means of providing the burros with an extra pair of nostrils, by opening an extra set of holes into the nasal cavity when the burros are young. And here's where the airplane comes into the story.

The "supercharged" burros could carry only 80 pounds over the higher passes. And engineers estimated the complete mining machinery required would total over a million pounds. An eight-year job for the burros. Besides, some of the individual pieces weigh over 1800 pounds.

FLYING FREIGHTER

Pan American-Grace Airways fitted out a Ford tri-motor, equipped with supercharged motors, and is now tackling the ticklish job. The crude airport lies 13,000 feet above sea level. Fortunately, the winds blew either up or down the valley, making it possible to hew an airport out of the jungle brush a mile long, although narrow. Meanwhile, engineers were re-vamping the husky tri-motor. A large hatch was opened in the roof of the fuselage aft to allow entrance of pieces eight feet long by four feet wide. Within the fuselage was built a two-rail track along which a platform could be rolled. By this means the load could be distributed throughout the fuselage. In this manner, even at these high altitudes, the tri-motor can lift loads from two to three thousand pounds.

LOAD PLANE

The "flying freighter" taxis up to its loading platform at the La Paz airport, which stands 1000 feet higher than the city, and the machinery is loaded. The crew of pilot and co-pilot-radio operator raise the big airliner and point its nose for Scrata pass, 18 miles from the airport, for its high arc over the Cordillera. Twenty-eight minutes later—instead of 10 days by surface trail—it will glide down through the narrowing valleys to touch its wheels on the long runway at Tipuani.

The operating schedule calls for the transportation of 10,000 pounds per day. Over one million pounds of machinery shuttled across the treacherous pass and delivered to the mill in 100 flying days.

Anybody got a concrete mixer they'd like to have flow somewhere?

This Passing Game Pays Detroit

OMAHA, Neb. (P)—Gus Dorais' University of Detroit football team can claim some kind of a forward pass record for its work against Creighton university in a game here.

In the first half Detroit's Palumbo, Slovick and Hayes tossed six passes before one went astray. The six completed passes were good for 111 yards and three touchdowns, giving Detroit a 21-7 lead at half-time.

In the second period Detroit scored two touchdowns on passes for a total of five and added two more on long runs from scrimmage, winning 48-7.

Detroit threw 27 passes and completed 14 for 228 yards during the contest.

Fordham Through With 1937 Football

NEW YORK, (P)—Jack Coffey, graduate manager of athletics at Fordham University, said today that the Ram football team, undefeated in eight games and tied only by Pittsburgh, would not play "in" any post-season game.

Until Alabama was announced as the eastern representative, Fordham had been considered a Rose Bowl possibility. Coffey said he had not received any challenge from the Tulsa, Okla., Junior chamber of commerce for a Jan. 1 game at Tulsa between Fordham and the University of Arkansas.

"If such a challenge is received," he added, "it will be turned down."

Radium, costing about $700,000 an ounce, is still the world's most expensive element. The total amount of mined radium in the world is estimated to be less than one and one-third pounds.

SOX, TIGERS TRADE MEN

MILWAUKEE, (P)—The first big deal of the minor league meetings came off today, with Chicago's White Sox trading Vern Kennedy, act pitcher, Dixie Walker, outfielder, and Tony Piet, an infielder, to Detroit's Tigers for Marvin Owen, a third sacker, outfielder Gerald Walker and Mike Tresh, a young catcher.

The deal was a straight player-for-player trade, with no cash involved, and Managers Jimmy Dykes of the Sox and Mickey Cochrane of the Tigers jointly announced the transaction.

A trade between Detroit and the Sox had been "on the fire" for two days, with Dykes reported as unwilling to part with Dixie Walker and Cochrane balking at giving up Owen.

RAMS HOG STAR TEAM POSTS

GRAND FORKS, N. D., (P)—Pittsburgh, Fordham and Alabama monopolized positions on the National Intercollegiate Sports writers' association All-America team, announced today. The first team: Daddio, Pittsburgh and Bershak, North Carolina, ends; Franco, Fordham, and Matisi, Pittsburgh, tackles; Routt, Texas A. and M. and Monaky, Alabama, guards; Wojciehowski, Fordham, center; Frank, Yale; Goldberg, Pittsburgh; White, Colorado, and Kilgore, Alabama, backs.

Kipke Had No Answer to Third String Vocalist

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (P)—Harry Kipke tells this one: "When a third-string tackle came to tell the Michigan football coach that pressure of other work would force him to leave the grid squad, Kipke asked if the boy couldn't stay on."

"We need you, you know," said the coach. The player was impressed, but after reflection, said: "Gee, coach, if you didn't need me against Minnesota you'll never need me."

The substitute was on the bench while the Gophers gave the Wolverines a good lacing.

NEWS OF ORANGE COUNTY COMMUNITIES

HOLIDAY IS PLANNED FOR PORT AREA

Committees Named For Yule Observance

NEWPORT-BALBOA. — Completing plans for a city-wide observance of the Christmas holidays, a general committee has been divided into four major groups to handle details of the community's program here, it was announced today by Harry Welch, chamber of commerce secretary.

Relief and aid for needy persons will be handled by a special sub-committee headed by J. D. Watkins, American Legion leader, Welch announced. Assisting Watkins will be Sam A. Meyer and Harry Estus. This committee will call into conference heads of other civic organizations, such as the Legion auxiliary, club and Parent-Teacher associations.

STAR COMMITTEE
A committee to be in charge of placing lighted stars at the entrances of Newport-Balboa will be headed by Frank Crocker, assisted by City Electrician George Foltz and John Seigel, assistant city engineer.

Mrs. D. S. Lloyd of Corona Del Mar and Mrs. Edna Miller of the American Legion auxiliary will suggest the arrangement to be followed out in placing the stars and in carrying out additional decorations which will be added this year to this particular festival.

In charge of the shrine at the Newport pier will be the 20-30 club headed by Dick Torrence, president. Other members of the general committee who will advise with the 20-30 club members are Mrs. R. P. Tillotson and Miss Lily Lahti of the art department of the high school. Earl Stanley of Balboa Island and P. A. Palmer of Lido Isle also will assist with suggestions for carrying out the shrine features, which it is understood will be quite extensive.

P-T-A. PARTY
In the matter of the grammar school children and their Christmas tree, Mrs. Elizabeth Hess, president of the P-T-A. A., will act for the general committee representing the chamber of commerce.

The committee will award a special prize for the best illuminated and decorated home in the Harbor District. Judges will be appointed by the committee to select these winners and those wishing to enter for these prizes are requested to notify the chamber of commerce or any member of the committee in order to save time in making the inspection.

Laguna Takes Out Accident Policy
LAGUNA BEACH. — To protect the city against liability from persons who might be injured in accidents, members of the city council last night accepted a policy from the Pacific Indemnity company which will cover any one person up to $50,000 or two or more persons to $100,000.

Walter H. Zimmerman of Glendale made application for the position of city engineer. Lyle G. Cross' proposal that he be paid $600 in advance for removal of the remaining portion of the old pier here was rejected.

One hundred dollars was granted civic organizations for decorating the business section during the Yuletide season.

To Present Plane

MISS GLORIA GAYLORD

With a score of local merchants acting as a composite Santa Claus the first winner of the model plane contest will be announced during the matinee tomorrow at the Broadway theater.

The winner of the first of 10 weekly contests will receive a 1938 model gas-powered five-foot wing spread monoplane all ready to fill with gasoline and take off.

The plane will be presented from the stage by Miss Gloria Gaylord, one of the leading dance instructors of the city as well as a member of the group of sponsors.

As a preliminary to the matinee event Floyd Martin will take to the air at Martin airport Saturday morning between 9 and 10 o'clock and will drop 500 tickets from his plane over the airport. A large crowd of boys is expected to be on hand to avail themselves of the free tickets.

A complete list of sponsors were free tickets are available includes Henry A. King's Daughters Work On Quilts

GARDEN GROVE. — Mrs. V. Frink entertained members of the King's Daughters Sunday school class of the First Baptist church at her home, 330 E. Garden Grove boulevard, recently. The meeting opened with the class song led by Mrs. Amy Croughan followed by a devotional service by the Rev. H. H. Clouse. During the hours spent working on quilt blocks, Mrs. Elissa Oerly invited the group to her home for the December meeting.

Others present were the Rev. W. J. Keach, Mesdames H. H. Clouse, Margaret Beardsley, Eva Thompson, Hattie Clark, Leona Akers, G. Hedstrom, Agnes Benson, Mary L. Tabien, Corine Burley, C. K. Lee, Emily Monroe, and Virgie Hackston.

Men of Church Plan Program

SILVER ACRES. — Men members of the Community church will meet at the church this evening for a social time. Dr. H. A. Johnson of Anaheim will be present and will speak on the "Bible and Science."

Dr. Howard Tews and Walter Taylor, Anaheim, will entertain with music. All men in the community are invited to be present.

NAME SANFORD 20-30 LEADER

ORANGE. — Jack Sanford was named president of the Orange 20-30 club Wednesday night at the annual election with Travis Flippen named as vice-president, which job carries the responsibility of securing programs for the meetings.

Harold Post is sergeant-at-arms, and Secretary-Treasurer V. G. Wolfe will continue to hold his position for the present term. On the board of directors are Melvin Clement, Willard Gaily, Walter Meier and Ford Underwood.

Ed Case and Harold Post were initiated into the club by Melvin Clement. Dr. W. C. Leichruss, Don College, Oscar Stutheit, Roy Hahne and Wolfe.

Outgoing President A. C. Myracle presided, and announced installation of the new officers for a ladies' night early in January.

It was decided to cancel the next meeting Dec. 8, because of joint installation of all 20-30 clubs in the county at Newport Beach next Monday.

G. G. Lions Map Xmas Festivities

GARDEN GROVE. — Planning to bring Christmas cheer to children of needy families and to assist with street decorations, the Lions club made additional plans at this week's luncheon for a Christmas party for wives and friends of members Dec. 15.

J. W. Crill who presided in the absence of President J. C. Kraushaar, will arrange the program and a committee comprised of Don Vane, Les Wright, Ernie Wakeham and Walter Thomason will aid.

This week's meeting brought the first half of the membership and attendance contest to a close, with Crill's side winning by a score of 124 to 113 over the side captained by Postmaster Clair Head.

County Council President E. M. Sundquist of Santa Ana spoke of the Lions International Conference to be held in Oakland next summer. Dick Haster, a witness in the frost damage case now on trial in the Anaheim justice court gave a resume of the case to date.

Other guests were Herb Eldred and Doc McCarthy of Anaheim.

Rotarians Honor District Leader

SANTA ANA. — Ray Green of Long Beach, district governor, was guest of honor at a meeting of the Rotary club Wednesday evening. He was accompanied by Mrs. Green.

This was the annual official visit of the district governor and he spoke of his trip to Nice, France, last summer where he was a delegate to the International Rotary convention. Clarence Brown, president of the club, presided.

The meeting next week will be in charge of J. W. Heineke, who announces that Cornelius De Bakesy of Fontana will address the club on aspects of Rotary as brought out at the International convention.

Westminster Minstrel Set

WESTMINSTER. — A cast of 30, assisted by the Community orchestra, will present an old-time minstrel show in the school auditorium Tuesday evening, Dec. 14, it was announced today.

Orion Behermeyer is directing the performance and Paul Beatty and M. S. Harder are musical directors. Jack Houlihan will act as instructor and end men will be Sam Micelli, Everette Hylton and Clayton Van Steenberg.

The affair is being given as a benefit for the P-T-A.

SAN JUAN YULE FETE SLATED

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO. — The girls' glee club, together with a selected group of boys and the orchestra of San Juan Capistrano Union High school will present a Christmas program on the evening of Dec. 15 in the school auditorium.

The first part of the program as planned will consist of musical selections including solos, duets and numbers by the orchestra. The concluding part as a Christmas cantata by Richard Kountz entitled "The Wondrous Story." A mixed chorus, accompanied by the orchestra, will supply the music while the action and speaking parts will be played by Carlos Romero, Lester Warner, Bob Longbotham, Gordon MacDougall, Bill Milligan and Harold Trapp.

CAPISTRANO BANQUET SET

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO. — To honor the thirty-eight boys who fought for the Cougars of San Juan Capistrano Union High school on the gridiron this fall, a banquet will be held in the auditorium of the school Tuesday evening, Dec. 14 which the public will be invited to attend. It is hoped to make the dinner an annual affair.

Veteran Marine Officers Retire

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Rear Admiral Norman M. Smith and Brigadier General Hugh Matthews of the marine corps have retired after more than 30 years of service each.

Smith, born in Williston, S. C., was chief of the bureau of harbors and docks. Matthews, born in Loudon county, Tenn., was quartermaster of the marine corps. Their successors are Commander Ben Moreel, born in Salt Lake City, who has been public works officer at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Colonel Seth Williams, born in Foxboro, Mass., who was Matthews' assistant. Moreel became a rear admiral and Williams a brigadier general with the promotions.

The world's most powerful commercial television broadcasting station is to be installed at the foot of the Eiffel Tower, Paris, with the antenna projecting from the top of the flagpole of the tower. The transmitter will have a peak power of 30,000 watts.

Music Section of S. C. Club Meets

SAN CLEMENTE. — Christmas carols were rehearsed at the regular meeting of the music section of the Woman's club at the home of Mrs. David I. Stoddard Monday evening. The rehearsal was in preparation for the entertainment to be staged by the club on the evening of Dec. 21.

Present were Mesdames Fred Abel, J. T. Klayner, Clara Berg, Neva McMahon, Geoffrey Hamilton, P. A. Neddermeyer, Miss Effie Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shork and Dr. and Mrs. Geo. O. Jones.

Farm Club Has Desert Trip

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO. — A group of boys, members of the Future Farmers club of San Juan Capistrano Union High school, has returned from a trip to Boulder Dam. The trip was made by automobile, with the boys camping en route. They were accompanied by Glen A. Moody, instructor and Aaron Buchheim, member of the high school board. Making up the party were Bill Callis, Malcolm Stewart, Takashi and Tautomu Kawatani and Peter Yamauchi.

NUT MEN GET $7000 AT G. G.

GARDEN GROVE. — Checks totaling $7000 have been put in the mail for members of the Garden Grove Walnut Growers association. The payment will bring the total so far this season up to $24,000.

Secretary Wayne Holt said in a few days growers will also receive the last government benefit payment for the 1936 crop.

About 30 per cent more nuts were processed this year at the plant, he said, than in '36 when 222 tons were handled as compared with 290 tons this year. Ever though nuts were of a poor quality this year, they were of better quality than the preceding year.

SPEEDER FINED

Ronald F. Stump, 378 Orange street, Orange, arranged to pay $50 fine after pleading guilty in City Judge J. G. Mitchell's court to speeding 70 miles an hour in a 45-mile zone at Santa Ana boulevard and Flower street. George T. Sanders, San Fernando, was fined $10 and James P. Hawkins, Los Angeles, paid an $8 fine on other speeding tickets.

Pipes for Women

Gloria Frances Coyle, Seattle college student, was trained in the ways of the Olympic wilderness by her father, who taught her, among other things, to smoke a pipe. When others reach for the cigarette case she pulls out the old "dudder."

Contract Club Meets in Clemente

SAN CLEMENTE. — Mrs. Leo Smith was hostess to members of the Contract club Monday afternoon at her home on Avenida Estrella. Present were Mesdames Scott E. Saxe, A. E. Adair, Carl Milner, Roy Larsen, Donald Todd, William H. Stute, and C. D. Mott. Prizes for high score were won by Mrs. Adair and Mrs. Stute while the travelling honor prize went to Mrs. Milner.

UNEMPLOYED UP 293,000 IN OCTOBER

NEW YORK. (AP)—There was a rise of 293,000 during October in the number of unemployed persons in the United States, the national industrial conference board estimated this increase over the September level lifted the number of unemployed to an estimated total of 4,355,000.

The rise in number of jobless, the board said, represented a resumption of the swing which took place from July to August of this year after a succession of monthly declines since January.

Total employment in all fields of private enterprise and in permanent government agencies was estimated at 46,836,000 persons in October, a decrease of 243,000 from the September total. The number employed in non-agricultural activities was placed at 35,257,000, a decrease of 59,000 compared with September.

The conference board is a research and statistical organization supported by industrial corporations and individuals.

GIANT CAVERN FOUND IN KERN

GLENDALE. (AP)—Two Glendale men have reported their discovery of a series of great caverns of undetermined extent in the Plute mountains of northern Kern county, 40 miles north of Bakersfield.

Robert C. Golden, a prospector, and Verne Harrington, homesteader, told the Glendale News-Press they discovered the caves on the latter's property. They said they were searching for antimony deposits when they came upon the caverns.

Two entrances two miles apart were found. The one first discovered was explored for a short distance. Its opening starts in a limestone cliff along Erskine creek. The shaft runs vertically down 1550 feet to a great oval shaped hall studded with stalactites and stalagmites.

A smaller dome shaped room lies just off the hall. In this and in another shaft two miles away the explorers concluded that other and larger rooms may be reached through yet unexplored crevices.

Rocks and flakes dropped into the shaft indicated great depth. Golden went down about 20 feet. He returned to Glendale and interested W. S. Kellogg, News-Press publisher, in the discovery. Kellogg organized an expedition which returned to the scene with a winch and 500 feet of steel cable, enabling the party to descend into the big hallway. In the party also were Douglas MacKellar, Altadena, and Thomas Welles and L. G. Scovern, both of Glendale.

Sheppard Signs Wage-Hour Plea

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Thirteen Californians signed the petition forcing the wage-hour bill out of the rules committee for house consideration.

They were Representatives Isaac Welch, Haverhill, Toland, McGrath, McGroarty, Voorhis, Kramer, Dockweiler, Ford, Scott, Golden and Sheppard.

Stokowski's 2nd Wedding Dissolved

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Leo-pold Stokowski's second marriage was dissolved here today when Judge William E. Orr granted the famed orchestra conductor's wife an uncontested divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

The hearing on Mrs. Evangeline Brewster Johnson Stokowski's suit, filed yesterday was held in a closed session at her request. Approval of a property settlement which gave her custody of their two daughters, Gloria Luba, 10, and Andrea Sadja, 6, was given.

Hull of Sunken Vessel Found

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—The water-filled hull of the 93-foot coastal freighter Eastholm was found afloat in Burrard inlet early today, not far from where the vessel was abandoned by her 10-man crew last night after a collision with a lumber barge in heavy fog.

Officials said the ship, owned by Frank Waterhouse and Company of Canada, Ltd., would probably be beached in an attempt to save part of her cargo of hides and canned salmon.

House dust, flour and cornstarch are dangerous explosives.

Railway Jobs Show Increase

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The interstate commerce commission reported today that railway employment increased during September.

An I. C. C. survey showed 1,133,003 persons employed on class one railways during September, compared with 1,162,764 in August. Income to the employees was set at $169,584,515, compared to $175,324,948 for August.

Albany, N. Y., was named in honor of the Duke of York and Albany, who later became James II of England.

'Pauper' Leaves Rich Oil Lands

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Seven grandchildren of Adelaide Bermudez de Barry, who believed she was poverty stricken on her death six years ago, were each approximately $10,000 richer today by a jury verdict setting aside her will.

Senora de Barry's estate consisted of 29 acres near Montebello. On it were three oil wells which have produced $100,000 in royalties since her death.

The will signed by the aged woman left most of her property to her eldest daughter, Lucille Barry. The jury's verdict, holding Miss Barry unduly influenced her

L. A. Building Tenancy High

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Office building tenancy in Los Angeles ranks second in the nation, being outstripped only by New York City, the Los Angeles Building Owners and Managers' association reported today.

Covering 129 major office buildings, the occupancy figure was set at 78.94 per cent of capacity. New York's occupancy figure is 82.61, Chicago's 78.01 per cent; Philadelphia's 75.05 per cent and Detroit's 74.81 per cent.

Medicine Heiress Fights for Son

CHICAGO. (AP)—Merry Fahney, the patent medicine heiress, has entered a new court fight, this time to regain custody of her son.

Her previous court visits have been to dispose of husbands. Pending at present is a suit to divorce her third mate, Baron Arturo Berlingieri.

Peter Parker Pickering, 6, child of her first marriage, was adopted in 1933 by Merry's mother, Mrs. Marion Fahney, who since has become the wife of Theodore Hardeen, jr.

In her bill Merry said she agreed to the adoption while ill. She now asks that the adoption be set aside.

Mediation Board Chairman Dies

WASHINGTON. (AP)—James W. Carmalt, chairman of the national mediation board, died at his home yesterday after an illness of several weeks. Carmalt had served on the board since 1934.

During the war he was on the staff of the war industries board. Later, he was assistant to the general counsel of the United States railroad administration. Carmalt came to Washington in 1909 from private law practice in New York.

SLOAN WARNS U.S. ECONOMY IN DANGER

NEW YORK. (AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of General Motors Corp., said today the main obstacle to the general revival of American enterprise is the "fear" of the foundation of the national economy is in "jeopardy."

Until that fear is removed, he said, "men will not invest their savings or risk their property" in enterprise.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, Sloan advanced a series of "concrete proposals, the necessity of which is so apparent to all."

First, Sloan said, "there must be developed a spirit of cooperation with mutual respect and confidence among all groups."

In the second place, the automobile executive said "the budget must be balanced by reducing expenses of government—not by increasing taxation."

The third phase of Sloan's "proposals" concerned tax changes.

The industrialist said the capital gains tax should be eliminated "to accomplish the best result," but "in any event, it should be sharply reduced to the end that there may be a free and unrestricted flow of capital into and within the security market."

As a compromise on the undistributed profits tax, Sloan said "some reasonable percentage, say 20 per cent, should be definitely allowed to provide for future needs, without penalty."

CAST OF 'MARY DUGAN' SKILLED

The cast of "The Trial of Mary Dugan" to be presented by the Santa Ana Community Players next week is made up of both new and old players. Some have appeared in one play before, others in many, and the rest are making their debut in Santa Ana.

The largest group is composed of those who have appeared once before. These are Marion Graef, Ethel Macaulay and Helen Johnson who appeared in "First Lady"; George Tobias, Claude Blakemore, and Fred Rowland in "Judgment Day"; Kenneth Scovel in "Bellamy Trial"; Charles Seales in "Enter Madame"; and Crawford Nalle in "Green Grow the Lilacs."

Those who have appeared in two others are Franklin West and Earl Abbey, who appeared in "Bellamy Trial" and "Judgment Day"; Loretta Spangler in "Seventh Heaven" and "Green Grow the Lilacs"; Edward Hall and Mayland Sims in "Judgment Day" and "First Lady"; and Northrup Ellis and Victor Morrison, who played in "Green Grow the Lilacs" and "Judgment Day."

Harold Fish and Harry Brackett are the most experienced members of the cast. Harold Fish played in "Cock Robin," "Hay Fever," and "Judgment Day." Harry Brackett is the players' veteran character actor. His first role with them was over fifteen years ago in "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Since that time he has played a great variety of parts in a large number of plays. His most important roles were in "The Bad Man," "Three Wise Men," "The Whole Town's Talking," and "Mr. Pim Passes By."

The newcomers are Harriet Brackett Sims, Lois Rees, Hazel Kuenzi, Charles Carillo, Frank Harwood, and Jerome Duffy. Most of them took part in plays in their school days, but it is their first appearance with the Santa Ana Community Players, who are always glad to welcome new actors.

Fanny Brice May Lose Her Man

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—To Fanny Brice today all this romantic fuss about her husband, Billy Rose and Eleanor Holm, looked "as though I might really lose my man."

"No, I haven't talked to Mr. Rose or to a lawyer," the 46-year-old song-and-dance star said. "I've got to figure this out."

Fanny had finished reading the news about Arthur L. Jarrett's divorce suit against Miss Holm. Jarrett, a band leader here, did not refer to Rose, a pint-sized producer of glorified girl shows by name, but he complained about his wife's conduct "with another man."

Direct Special Consumer Offer Here

Launching a special consumer sampling offer for Maxwell House coffee, F. C. Hawkins, district sales manager of General Foods Sales Co. of Los Angeles, visited Santa Ana this week to confer with local campaign supervisors. District Representative J. H. Fitzgerald of Long Beach (right) is supervising the campaign, assisted by Charles MacDaniels, Orange county representative (left), and H. J. Kwid of Long Beach (center). In order to acquaint Santa Ana housewives with Maxwell House coffee's new freshly processed flavor, one and one-half pound packages are being offered at the regular one-pound price through the cooperation of local grocers, Fitzgerald announced.

Stitch These! The More the Merrier

You've no idea what fun it is to stitch these bright and cheery kitten towels or what fun it is to use them! Make at set or two for Christmas... your friends will thoroughly enjoy the gay note these kittens bring to their household tasks. Use bright floss for the 8-to-the-inch crosses, for the gayest these towels are, the more welcome they'll be. In pattern 5816 you will find a transfer pattern of seven motifs averaging 5 1/2 x 6 1/2 inches; illustrations of stitches used; material requirements; color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Santa Ana Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

ARREST OF 2 SOLVES 60 HOLDUPS

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—A 45-day crime wave involving around 60 holdups in California and Utah led to jail today for two youths identifying themselves as Robert Wadley, 17, Miles City, Mont., and Marvin Thomas, 23, Richmond, Va.

Police Captain Charles Dullea said Wadley told him that newspaper headlines saying officers were "ordered to shoot to kill" as a result of a series of hotel robberies here, prompted the youths to plan to leave for Chicago by train last night. They were seized before such plans materialized.

Captain Dullea said the two admitted participating in 11 hotel robberies in San Francisco, as well as holdups elsewhere, including hotels in Sacramento and Stockton, Calif., "three or four hotels in Los Angeles," and two in Salt Lake City.

The officer said the holdups netted around $1000 in cash and a similar amount in travelers' checks the two had been unable to cash. Wadley was quoted as saying only a cap pistol was used.

Thomas told officers his last address was the Cabell county jail at Huntington, W. Va.

'Shop Early Xmas,' Proclaims Mayor

You can now do your Christmas shopping! Mayor Fred C. Rowland today issued this proclamation urging early Christmas shopping.

To the Citizens of Santa Ana,

Greetings:

"The approaching Christmas season again turns our thoughts to an appropriate observance of the Christmas spirit by the giving of gifts and by the thoughtful care in the selection of such gifts, the pleasure and satisfaction incident to this custom is greatly enhanced.

"The choice and purchase of gifts well in advance of Christmas will prevent the imposing of hardships upon the personnel of stores, other business institutions, and the Postal service, whose joy in the season may be minimized by our undue demands;

"Now, therefore, as Mayor of the City of Santa Ana, I do hereby proclaim the official Christmas Shopping Season in and for this City to begin on Saturday, Dec. 4th, 1937, and to all our people I urge Early Christmas Shopping."

Signed FRED C. ROWLAND, Mayor.

Vending Machine Owner Under Fire

Arraigned in Huntington Beach justice court on a charge of operating a vending machine in violation of the state prophylaxis act, Hollis B. Carr, owner of Hod's pool hall in Huntington Beach, filed an affidavit of bias and asked change of venue to the city court yesterday.

Carr was arrested yesterday on a complaint filed Tuesday by Philip C. Rackoff, inspector for the California state board of pharmacy. He charged in his affidavit that he felt he would not receive a fair and impartial trial by Justice of the Peace Chris P. Pann.

The complaint specifically charges the use of a mechanical vending machine to sell devices used in the prevention of venereal diseases. The state law provides such devices can be sold only by licensed physicians and pharmacists.

O'Brien Estate Papers Asked

Probate of the will of Thressa L. O'Brien, who died in Anaheim last Nov. 8, was asked today by her sister, Mrs. Bell Barry, in a petition filed in superior court.

The estate, estimated at less than $2500, consists of three lots in Anaheim, two of the improved with houses, and personal property. It is left to a brother, Henry Kenney, and Mrs. Barry, both of Anaheim.

Success Factors Shown in Survey

NEW YORK. (American Wire)—More beginners lose jobs through bad manners, bad personality and character traits than through lack of skill, according to a survey of 76 firms just completed under the direction of Grwynne A. Proser of the American Institute of Banking. Only 10 per cent of the employees dismissed by the firms were released because they lacked ability, the survey revealed.

Fake Check Cases Solved by Arrest

A dozen fictitious check cases were believed near solution today when it was learned Governor Merriam has requested the extradition of John J. Madden from Tucson, Ariz.

Madden is charged with issuing three fictitious checks in a complaint filed in Santa Ana justice court Nov. 26, and police believe he may have been responsible for several other similar offenses.

BOY, 11, GETS MEDAL FOR HEROISM

DETROIT. — An 11-year-old school safety patrolman who saved two pupils and then flattened himself between railroad tracks while a train thundered over him on Oct. 18 was awarded an American Legion gold medal for valor last night.

The medalist, William Chundrik, was hustling the two pupils across the track when his heel became caught in a railroad tie. He pushed them to safety, pulled out of the shoe and "pancaked" into the roadbed just ahead of a train. He was unhurt.

"Sure I was scared," he said. "I

$3000-a-Year Men Must Pay Tax

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The internal revenue bureau has ruled that social security taxes on salaries of more than $3000 a year should be paid the first part of the year and not spread evenly over 12 months.

The taxes apply only to the first $3000 earned, thus a person earning $3000 a month must pay his whole year's tax in January and then would be exempt the rest of the year.

The bureau also ruled no tax refund could be granted if an employee of a company voluntarily refunded part of his salary to his employer. The question arose in the case of a corporation whose president gave back part of his salary because the business could not afford the pay he was getting.

A friend, former Municipal Court Justice Edward Richards, spelled into Miss Keller's hand with his fingertips a few routine questions. Asked if she sponsored Miss Thomson as a citizen, Miss Keller replied: "I do."

NEW YORK. (AP)—Helen Keller appeared in Queens supreme court as a character witness today when her secretary-companion, Miss Polly Thomson, received her final citizenship papers.

The famous blind-deaf author and the woman who has been her "eyes" and "ears" for 24 years stood hand in hand before Justice J. P. Hallinan.

After her companion took the oath of allegiance, Miss Keller said:

"Now that Miss Thomson has her papers I feel safe. I shall always know I have her. I could not carry on without her. She is my eyes and ears."

Glasgow, Scotland, responded in horrified tones when asked if she ever had been arrested.

"Oh, no," she said.

State Eyes Printing Game... For Its Liquor Stamps

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Experiments conducted at the state printing plant indicate that the state soon will be able to save thousands of dollars yearly by printing its own liquor stamps.

George Moore, the state printer, said today that the manufacture of the stamps by the steel die process has proved "very successful" in recent experiments at the plant here.

Commercial production, he believes, will be possible within six months.

Moore began his experiments two months ago after the state board of equalization, dissatisfied with the prices charged by private concerns which have been printing the stamps, passed a resolution advocating state production of the stamps at the earliest possible date.

The installation of new printing equipment in the state plant will be necessary to manufacture the stamps.

The state has an option with the Schwabacher-Frey company of San LIQUOR PRICE WAR IN N. Y.

NEW YORK. (AP)—A retailers' price slashing war which cut the price of some brands of Scotch $1 a quart and bottled-in-bond whiskies 50 cents a bottle disturbed the liquor business here today.

The reductions apparently were confined at first stores in the mid-Manhattan section.

Spokesmen for the greater New York Licensed Liquor Stores Association, Inc., blamed "chiseling" retailers. They predicted distillers would quickly end the rivalry by refusing to deliver further liquor shipments to stores responsible for the price drops.

"ALIBI GIRL"

By ROB EDEN

Copyright, 1937
The Register and Tribune Syndicate

Begin here:

Nancy Roland, summoned to police headquarters supposedly to aid in solving the mysterious murder of her wealthy uncle, Dodge Roland, realized, after hours of questioning, that she is being accused of the crime. "But I was with my cousin, Alan, at the time the uncle was murdered Thursday night, July 1," she insists. Captain Wyman, thereupon summons Nancy. As though a blow had been struck against her body, Nancy hears her cousin testify it was Wednesday, June 30—not Thursday, July 1, the night of the murder—that they were together. Then, an oil-stain attendant called by Wyman testifies to having seen Nancy with Jory the night of June 30. A night watchman further swears he saw the girl near her uncle's home the night of the murder. July 1, Nancy is lodged in jail, bewildered at the lies being told by her cousin and his witnesses. Almost immediately, however, she is released on $30,000 bond, which is paid by an unknown man in gray, who was present at the questioning. Meeting the man, Nancy finds him to be Julian Howard, distinguished author of detective novels. She is drawn to him at once, confident in his ability to assist her. Now go on with the story:

CHAPTER SEVEN
There was the morning she went in the police car accompanied by three officers to her uncle's house. For 10 terrible minutes she had thought they were taking her back to jail, and then the car turned into the familiar street and she found herself staring at the old three-story stone house to which even its blanket of ivy could not give any warmth.

Seeing the steps which she had gone up so many times, and the great wide door with the perpetual squeak to its hinges. They squeaked when the four of them entered, she and the three men. George Cramer was there, bowing inside the door with the bow she knew so well, as familiar as the house, the bow he used only for Dodge Roland and not she and Alan because they didn't deserve it.

Behind him popping her head from the hall door was Della, his wife, those same too thick lenses before her eyes, and the same tight prim set to her lips.

NO SYMPATHY
Cramer looked at Nancy, but said nothing. He looked away quickly. There was no welcoming salute in Della's eyes, no sympathy in her face.

But then there had been Alan any. Perhaps if it had been Alan coming in, Nancy thought, Della would have softened. She liked Alan, even if Cramer did not.

For 10 years she had known both of them. She had been with her uncle a few years before that.

For 10 years, off and on in her comings and goings from school, she had seen them about the house, Cramer padding through the rooms in his soft-soled slippers with the elastic sides, Della tiptoeing back and forth into the dining room, almost as quietly as George.

At first the girl had tried to make friends with Della—she needed a friend so much, and Cramer had frightened her from the moment she entered the house.

Della wouldn't be friends. So that was the way it remained, each staying on her own side of the fence, never encroaching on the other's property, or the other's life.

GOOD MORNING
Two women in the house, who said good morning to each other, and sometimes good night. At first they had been child and woman saying good morning and then good night.

Here were the broad spacious rooms that were so beautifully furnished and yet so cold and lifeless, and so little used, for Dodge Roland had had little company even if his taste in art was good.

The heavy fine rugs on the floor that the Cramers kept so fresh and clean, the carved old furniture that shone with their rubbing and polishing.

"The museum" Nancy used to call the house facetiously to her friends when she was in college, and she used to laugh a little after she said it. She was thinking of that phrase as she walked up the broad staircase behind one detective, in front of two more.

But she wasn't smiling. She seldom smiled when she came into her uncle's house. It wasn't that kind of a house. It was a house where unconsciously you lowered your voice and you walked softly, like the Cramers did. You didn't run in giggling, and shouting with glee, glad to be home.

You didn't burst into it like Olive did at her parents' ranch, thrilled, and happy.

SIGH OF RELIEF
Nancy smiled sometimes when she left, and she usually sighed with relief, but not when she came in.

On the second floor she saw the wide hallway with the doors that were familiar, too, great mahogany doors carved in relief. Beautiful doors. Her uncle's, and then Alan's, and then across from Alan's, hers.

Another at the bend of the hall led to the third floor laboratory.

On the boulevards which was one of her uncle's favorites and which stood against the wall between his room and Alan's room was the Dresden vase. It was filled with pink roses.

For a moment it didn't seem strange to her that it should have roses in it, because she was so used to it holding roses. Sometimes white from the rose garden in the garden at the back, sometimes yellow, and sometimes pink.

She never could remember that it had held red roses, although there were red roses in the arbor.

Then it struck her with a shock that her uncle was dead, and the roses were still in the vase, fresh roses every day as they always had been. Her uncle who always picked the roses, and who wouldn't let Della or George Cramer near the rose arbor was dead. Yet the roses were.

HATED ROSES
Suddenly she knew she hated the roses, especially pink roses.

She only had to close her eyes and see her own face in the mirror, and above her face that black hat with the two pink roses drooping over the brim.

She hurried past the Dresden vase so swiftly she nearly trod on Lieutenant Murphy's heels. They went up to the laboratory. Somehow she had known they were going there when she found herself staring at the house. Five of them, for Cramer was one of the party, too.

It was as she remembered it, too, for she had been in it many times. When Dodge Roland wasn't in his rose garden, or in his dining room, or sleeping the eight hours he gave himself every night, he was in this great third floor room where he experimented with electricity and gases.

Nancy would have much preferred to talk to him in the rose garden, but there were never conferences there. They were saved for the laboratory, Dodge Roland sitting at his great work table, his suit covered with a worn faded green smock, standing near, looking down at him.

She saw the blood stain on the white enamel table, and on the clean gray linoleum that was under the table. She saw it and an icy chill settled in her veins. The first moment that she saw it she was frightened, not of the blood, but of what her uncle would say of it.

For habit was strong, and Dodge Roland was a stickler for neatness. The next second she remembered that the blood was her uncle's and he wasn't there to complain about it.

YOUR KEY
"You let yourself in with your key, Nancy Roland," Murphy announced slowly, his bulbous eyes searching her face.

"You let yourself in downstairs with your key—the key you had neglected to give back to your uncle when you left his house. You knew he was here alone. Your cousin had told you Wednesday night that the Cramers were going away early Thursday morning, July 1."

"You came quietly up the stairs, and you opened that door there," he pointed back of them to the door before which Cramer was standing.

"Your uncle was sitting at his desk. You quarreled with him about money, and then you reached into this drawer here—" he pointed to a desk back of the big white enamel work table which had been especially made for Dodge Roland—and then to a drawer which was open—"you took a gun from this drawer and shot your uncle."

"You were wearing gloves when you entered this room, and you were wearing gloves when you opened that drawer and picked up the gun. After you shot him, you dropped the gun, but you forgot to close the drawer."

"You remembered, though to close the door going into the hall when you went out. Habit that was, probably, because your uncle liked the door closed. You went downstairs and out of the house."

STOPPED SPEAKING
His words echoed a little after he stopped speaking, for the laboratory was a large one—equal to the three great bedrooms, and three large baths on the second floor.

One of the higher notes of his voice caught in some wires and sang with a metallic ring, even after the echo was gone.

"That's what you did, Nancy Roland."

"I didn't," she replied firmly, and her voice echoed, too, and suddenly the room illuminated so brightly with the great lights Dodge Roland used in his work and in his experiments was too bright for her eyes, and she had to shade them with her hands.

"You knew your uncle had a gun in this drawer?" Murphy jabbed out a hand at the open drawer.

She couldn't answer yet—the light like that freezing chill she had had when she had first noticed the blood stain seemed to pierce to her very veins.

"You knew your uncle had a gun in this drawer?" Murphy repeated, and the same metallic tingle rang through the room after he finished.

"I knew, yes, I knew, but I didn't shoot him."

"How long had you known about the gun?"

REMEMBER BACK
How long had it been? She had to remember back, because the memory of the weapon belonged far back—almost from the time she had come into the house to live.

Yes, Alan had showed it to her once when their uncle was gone, and he had showed her another gun, too, that was kept in the drawer of the night table by her uncle's bed. Two guns. One on the second floor and one on the third.

After that Dodge Roland had showed her the gun, both guns. She told Murphy, and when she finished, she heard Cramer sniffing. That was a familiar sound, too. She was used to Cramer's sniffs.

They always meant he didn't believe a word she said.

"Why didn't you return your key to your uncle?"

"He never asked for it, and I forgot it. I was going to give it to Alan to return it and then—I forgot."

"You forgot," Murphy repeated sarcastically.

She was afraid when they filed out of the laboratory and down the two flights of stairs to the hall entry. Afraid when they got into the car that they might take her not home—but to jail where she had spent the night before last.

DROVE HER HOME
They didn't, though. They drove her home, and when she got out of the car, Murphy said, "You understand, Nancy, that you can't leave Los Angeles county, and that you report to Captain Wyman at eight o'clock every morning by phone, don't you?"

"I do." She resented the "Nancy."

There were visitors in the bungalow when she went in. (To Be Continued)

Jaysee Candidates Start Petitions
Petitions for two students for Associated Student offices have been taken out at Santa Ana Junior college. They are for Paul Wolven, candidate for vice-president, and Dick Phillips, for president.

Nominations of candidates for Associated Student offices are now being made by petition on the campus. The filled blanks must be handed in by next Friday, signed by 50 students. President Al Pickhardt revealed. Election will be held after Christmas vacation.

Aside from president and vice-president, nominations will be made for secretary and treasurer. The newly elected officers will hold office for the second semester.

Six million people were employed directly or indirectly in the automotive industry in the United States last year.

'MOMENT OF DARKNESS'

The business district of Santa Ana will be in total darkness Saturday evening between 6:45 and 7 o'clock prior to the opening of the gala Christmas festival program featuring periodic broadcasts of Yuletide music, brightly lighted Christmas trees and the most splendid display of holiday merchandise Santa Ana merchants have ever presented to the public.

On request of Phil Brown, general chairman of the Christmas festival, merchants in the business section are planning on turning off their store window and sign lights at promptly 6:45 Saturday evening. Fifteen minutes later, lights on the Christmas trees in the business district, store lights and colored flood lamps will be turned on simultaneously to mark the opening of the 1937 Christmas season. Accompanying this display will be the broadcast of the first musical number "Joy to the World," to be sung by a leading local musical organization.

On each evening thereafter through the Christmas holidays the brilliant night display will be continued with periodic broadcasts of music by live talent.

POWER THEFT HITS MEXICO LIGHT FIRM

MEXICO CITY, (AP) — The Mexican Light and Power company, its facilities overtaxed by wire tapping power thieves, announced today it would accept no new customers after Jan. 1.

Because of failure of efforts to get effective legislation to end the thefts which have equalled 25 per cent of the annual generation, the company, controlled by Belgian, Canadian and British interests, was said to be little disposed to spend more money to increase its facilities.

The threatened curtailment became an obstacle to Mexico's industrial development and building activity. Hundreds of new apartment and office buildings, factories and private dwellings, now in construction would be affected. Several months ago the company halted service for electric stoves and other large electrical appliances.

Cherry Wins Twice In Succession

For the second time in two weeks, David Cherry of Newport Beach, and President of the Smedley No. 1 Chapter of Toastmasters, won first place in the speaking contest at Daniger's Cafe on Wednesday evening. Required to speak at two consecutive meetings, Cherry duplicated his success of last week with his talk entitled "Talking Back," in which he criticized the techniques used by the members of the club as they made their criticisms of the various speakers.

Walter Ferris took second place with his talk "In Cloudland" which described some of the delights of his recent vacation. Other speakers of the contest were Robert N. Scove upon the topic "The Unsung Hero," W. W. Cadwallader, "Personality," Robert Korff, "The Tyranny of Words," and James M. Anderson, "The Government Factor in Business Recovery."

Arthur Kruger presided as Toastmaster. Daniel K. Brown acted as general critic for the evening.

Shoppers Finicky
About Sentiment

By MILLARD BROWNE

Most finicky shoppers in Santa Ana are the ones who purchase sentiment—particularly the kind that's canned with appropriate pictures and phrases into greeting cards.

And though there's no accounting for sentimental tastes, local vendors of ready-made Christmas cards are attempting to do it by displaying an assortment of something over a thousand different styles.

They figure more than 100,000 Christmas cards will be mailed by Santa Ana purchasers this year, exclusive of those that are printed or engraved by special order.

Yet Christmas card business represents less than half of the total ready-made greeting cards offered for nearly a dozen holidays and a score of special observances.

Miscellaneous greeting cards are taken off display and put under the counter to make room for the tremendous Christmas assortment, but even at this time of year, business in birthday cards, thank you's and a dozen others is nearly up to par.

Santa Ana dealers have Christmas cards with every conceivable kind of sentiment, and ready-made ones for almost anyone—sweetheart, friend, a dozen different relations ranging from brother to mother-in-law, doctor, dentist, boss, postman and milkman.

Least popular of these are the brother-in-law cards. Salesmen frankly are surprised that they sell as many mother-in-law greetings as they do. The Merry Christmas-Dearest Teacher cards and similar ones are rapidly growing in popularity.

Not counting Christmas, the best special day for greeting cards is Valentine's Day, when shoppers thumb through an assortment of around 500 numbers. Next in line are Easter and Mother's day. Father's Day card sales are far behind but creeping up steadily, and graduation cards always sell out during June.

Dealers sell a large number of St. Patrick's day cards—but comparatively few of them are sold to Irishmen. Jewish New Year's also is a popular occasion for greeting cards and Thanksgiving, Fourth of July, and New Year's day are consistent in a smaller way. Most New Year's cards go to people who forgot to send a Christmas card to a friend who sent them one.

Greeting card sentiment is a perishable commodity, and dealers never carry designs over from year to year. Next year's Christmas designs now are being made up, and local dealers will do their ordering in March. A few of the better verses are preserved, but they will be dressed up on a completely different style of card by next December.

Birthday card business is nearly as big as Christmas trade, but of course it's spread out over the entire year and isn't as noticeable. Birthday greetings are put up for as many specific family relations as Christmas cards, and in addition there is a different design for nearly every year.

The biggest year-around greeting card assortment in Santa Ana is handled by Stein's stationery which stocks close to 3000 styles during a 12-month period.

Major trend since depression is toward more expensive cards, rather than toward greater numbers. Average prices paid now are five and ten cents apiece, with an increasing number of 25- and 50-cent cards being sold. Biggest sellers in the high priced class are the sentimental sweetheart designs.

BUILDING SLIGHTLY DOWN

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — The clatter of carpenter's hammers quieted a little along the Pacific coast last month, while this region along with the nation made a searching scrutiny of the progress of the building industry.

Builders took out permits for construction of $125,610,000 worth of residential, industrial and commercial buildings in the coast's 11 largest cities in the first 11 months of this year.

This was about 3 per cent ahead of last year. The $2,719 jobs held a lead of 10 per cent, or thereabouts, over the first 11 months of 1936.

November permits amounted to $7,748,000, compared with $8,045,000 in October and $9,951,000 in November, 1936.

The number of jobs tapered off to 6867 from 7573 in the preceding month this year and from 7102 in the like month last year.

The decline from October was nominal compared with the big drop in the preceding month.

Many interviews over the past month indicate the recession in building, along with administrative efforts to stir the industry to new activity, has centered attraction on the effects of building on general business. Probably never before has the relation between building activity and employment in numerous supply industries and resulting business over store counters been so widely discussed, at least in this area.

Reports along the coast revealed great interest in the plans for a new national housing drive, but many had questions to raise. It was pointed out building credit is relatively cheap, and further easing of terms may not be entirely beneficial in results to such a long term proposition as building investment, and that even though stimulating for a time, it would not overcome high costs of labor, lumber, other materials or land, nor materially affect the combined costs of numerous contractor and subcontractor margins on the same building.

CCC Enrollment Now in Progress

Another chance for young men to join the Civilian Conservation Corps was offered today.

Mrs. Belle J. Spangler in the county welfare department said today she was taking applications for enrollment in the January period.

Enrollees must be unemployed, out of school, citizens, 17 to 23 years of age, unmarried and physically fit. Base pay of $30 a month is offered besides food, clothing, shelter, medical and dental attention, athletics, insurance and compensation and educational advantages.

Building Permits Top 1936 Total

Construction in Santa Ana yesterday passed its last 1937 "milestone" when a $5000 residence permit pushed the total since Jan. 1 ahead of the total for the entire year of 1936.

Wesley Farney, local contractor, filed application for a $5000 permit to build a six-room home at 1403 West Ninth street, thus bringing 1937 building up to $1,164,582. The 1936 total was $1,164,175.

trying situations calmly.

When 400 performers and laborers of an indoor circus were thrown out of work because the management could not meet the payroll, Wilke, who trained Queenie, the educated cow, held up two $1 bills and said:

"As long as this lasts Queenie and I are O. K. I'll use the money to buy her dinner, then milk her for mine. We can go on indefinitely—as long as the $2 lasts."

SPORTS EDITOR PRAISES S. A. GRID SQUADS

Three hundred Santa Ana business men gathered around a Swiss steak yesterday afternoon to honor 200 young and hungry football players—members of two championship teams and another on the threshold of a title.

Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs were hosts at a luncheon honoring sophomore and varsity griders of Santa Ana High school, title holders in their divisions, and the Junior college Dons, who enter a championship playoff tonight at the Municipal bowl.

"WINNING OUT OF FASHION" Three chairmen, a dozen speakers and introductions by the hundreds were heard at the meeting, at which Bill Henry, sports editor of the Los Angeles Times, was guest of honor.

"It hasn't been the fashion to win many games this year," quipped Henry. "It's a good thing you people here are congratulating yourselves—nobody else will."

Henry paid brief tribute to football as a sportsmanlike game, congratulated the local teams on their performances, and took a dig at grandstand coaches who think they're running things.

"Football," he said, "has leveled off the human race and brought everyone down to a sort of common denominator. Nothing does a so-called lounge lizard more good than to go out and get pushed around by someone he hasn't even been introduced to."

He doesn't get any pleasure, he said, in seeing outsiders go to football games simply to be giving somebody the raspberry.

"I have seen," he observed, "lots of fellows who weren't even good judges of liquor who are quite certain that they are good judges of football coaching."

HARWOOD IN CHARGE President Frank Harwood of the Lions club, sponsor of the event, was master of ceremonies. Members of the three football squads were introduced by their coaches, Bill Cook of the Junior college, Bill Cooke of the Santa, and Reese Greene of the high school sophomores.

Harwood, President John McCoy of Rotary and President R. B. Newcom of Kiwanis took turns at the gavel. Brief talks were given by George Wells, president of the school board; D. K. Hammond, director of the junior college; Lynn Crawford, high school principal; Frank Henderson, school superintendent, and Mayor Fred C. Rowland.

Roy Richards, impersonator from a Major Bowes traveling unit, entertained the gathering.

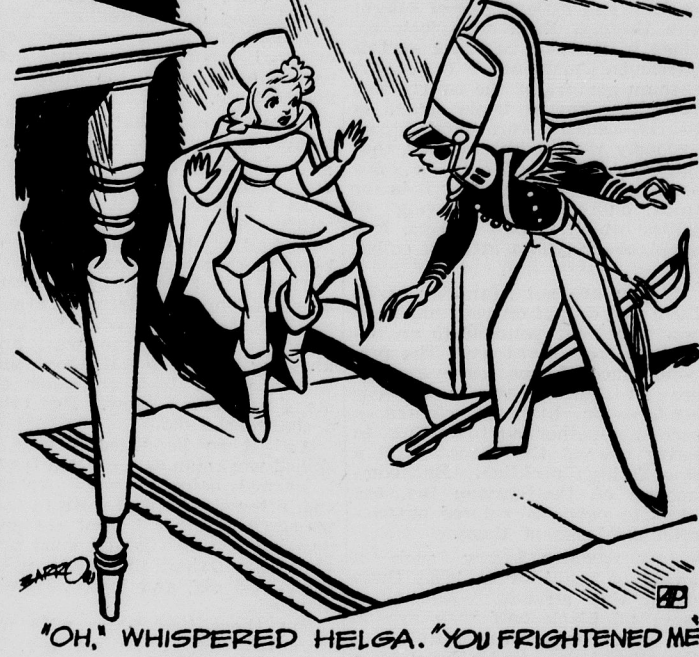

Two New 'Y' Clubs Are Organized

"Trail Blazer Pioneers" and "The Townier Street Tribe" are the names of the two newest Y. M. C. A. organizations, according to Herbert Thomas.

Officers of the Trail Blazers, which group is composed of seventh and eighth grade students at Willard Junior high school, are as follows: Ed Budd, leader; Dick Guthrie, president; Paul Smithers, vice-president; Franklin Cox, secretary and Victor Lauebach.

Officers of the Townier Street Tribe are: Bill and Bob Winterbourne, leaders; Eldon Winterbourne, chief; Emil Styffe, tom tom beater; Carl Winterbourne, Indian runner; Douglas Carmichael, medicine man; Paul Kanady, wampum bearer. The boys in this group will hold their meetings at the Winterbourne home.

SANTA WHITE FOX

THE STORY SO FAR: When all the toys go skiing, Helga, a doll, makes friends with a dangerous white fox. Santa scolds her, but the white fox whispers he will come back.

CHAPTER FIVE OFF THEY GO!

Santa couldn't frown at Helga very long after she ran off to ski with the white fox. She looked so happy.

She even asked Mrs. Santa if she could string together the necklaces of tiny silver bells that Mrs. Santa ties about the necks of white woolly dogs.

Santa was so pleased he whispered to Mrs. Santa, "Well, I'm glad she's taking an interest. I was afraid of that fox."

"He's a bad one," said Mrs. Santa.

But they didn't even guess what Helga was thinking. As she strung the silver bells she thought, "I'll hide 12 of these, and tonight I'll give them to the white fox."

And that's what she did. The day passed and Santa shoed all the dolls to bed at eight. Helga crept into her bed, chuckling because under the pillow was hidden the necklace of silver bells for the white fox. Soon the whole toyshop was asleep. The flames in the fireplace died down.

A WARNING

The clock in the corner kept saying:

Tick, tock, I'm a lock, Tick, tock, I lock away Every day, Tick, tock.

The only one awake was Helga. She watched the moon climb over the Christmas trees, and up the sky. He peeked into the toyshop, but Helga shut her eyes and pretended to sleep. Finally the clock boomed midnight. Helga's eyes flew open, and outside the window sat the white fox.

She slipped on her cape, put the silver bells in her pocket and started to tiptoe out. But in her path stood the tin soldier.

"Oh," whispered Helga. "You frightened me."

"You frightened me," said the soldier doll. "You're going skiing with the fox again. He'll steal you for his Christmas gift."

Helga giggled under her breath. "Not me," she said. "I can ski as fast as he can run."

"Maybe so, but he has very sharp claws."

"But that's only from running

SCOUT CAMP READY FOR HARD WINTER

If the 100 Boy Scouts who will attend the Rokili camp near Benton Flats Dec. 26 are snowed in, they needn't worry about having enough food or firewood to tide them over, according to Scoutmaster Harrison White who returned from the camp today.

Twenty five cords of wood have been stored by Caretaker Clark Finney of Costa Mesa and there is enough food cached to supply twice the number of boys who will be present, White explained.

While at the camp Wednesday, Mr. White said, the temperature was 21 degrees above zero and a flurry of snow fell. Ice is ten inches deep at Dollar Lake.

The encampment at Rokili is an annual event at which time Scouts from all parts of the county engage in winter sports. Mr. White expressed the belief that Jenks Lake, one quarter of a mile from the camp, will be in condition to skate on by the time the boys arrive.

Possibility the Scouts will be snowed in this year will be diminished as the state highway department will have a $14,000 snow plow in operation along the main roadway this winter, according to Joe Holt, highway foreman.

Edna Hewitt Crawford, executive secretary of the tuberculosis association.

Under the supervision of Herbert G. Bickel, faculty instructor, Santa Ana high school students presented a program of music.

Have Another Cuppa Coffee?

Manager Robert J. Vidal (center) of the Pay-less Market is one of the Santa Ana grocers cooperating with the General Food Sales Co. in launching a consumer sampling offer of one and one-half pounds of Maxwell House coffee for the price of one pound. He is shown here in front of the huge Pay-less coffee display with Charles MacDaniels, Orange county General Foods representative (left), and H. J. BROADWAY STILL THERE?

Comedian Goes Back To See

HOLLYWOOD. (AP) — One of Broadway's old troupers, W. C. Fields, is going back to see if things are really as bad along the thoroughfare as he has heard. The bulbous-nosed film comedian is looking forward to revisiting the street of his early theatrical days with some anxiety and sadness.

Fields has not been back there for seven years, but he has read that Broadway, as a Rialto, is something to speak about in the past tense. "It may be grand to get on Broadway," he said today, "but it may be sad. If it's all they tell me it is, flea circuses have taken the place of Hammerstein's and the new Amsterdam. "For the life of me, I can't tell you why I am going back. Maybe I would be better—ah, far better off, remembering Broadway in the days when it was really the great white way."

Nevertheless, Fields declared, he is going to return as soon as he finishes his current picture "The Big Broadcast of 1938."

"I want to see the museum where I worked one time," Fields said. "Ah, well I remember—let me see—the headless lady went out for lunch, slipped on the ice and fractured—I believe it was—her skull. They got me to take her place."

This made no great improvement, Fields recalled.

'Representative Of Underworld' In Prison Again

LONDON. (American Wire) — England's most impudent criminal was in prison again today, having just been convicted of swindling. He is J. Blomfield Wood, who as "representative of the underworld" used to congratulate famous judges on their appointments. In this capacity he attended the funeral of Sir Ernest Wild, a former recorder of London, and Sir Henry Curtis Bennett, the famous K. C.

In church he mixed with judges who had sentenced him and counsels who prosecuted him. When the present chairman of the London sessions was appointed Wood wrote him a letter of congratulation stating it was not his personal feelings, but that he was writing on behalf of the underworld. His favorite pose was that of a clergyman.

Labor Value of Wife Estimated

WASHINGTON, D. C. (American Wire) — Housewives make a great contribution to family income, studies conducted by Miss Mary Elizabeth Pidgeon, chief of the research division of the women's bureau, department of labor, reveal. If the labor cost of preparing a meal were placed at 15 cents, the average housewife's labor from this alone is worth $1167 per year, according to Miss Pidgeon.

Japan Toy Shops Go War-Minded

TOKYO. (American Wire) — Japan's traditional dolls are being passed by these days for more exciting toys. Youngsters are thronging department stores here, pleading with parents to buy them the imitation machine guns, tanks, anti-aircraft guns and war planes with which stores are now stocked. One of the most popular toys is a cardboard "No Man's Land," realistically depicting trenches and barbed-wire entanglements.

Urges Tax Rebate For Mental Wear

LONDON. (American Wire) — Writers should be allowed a tax rebate for wear and tear on their mental machinery, in the opinion of Winston Churchill. Depreciation should be noted in the income tax because the author is the source from which "comes the ever-broadening flow of intellectual and commercial activity... a highly desirable citizen to be honored and substantially rewarded," he declared.

Marie Dressler Footprints Are Covered Over

HOLLYWOOD. (American Wire) — Friends of the late great Marie Dressler here are protesting the disappearance of her footprints from Hollywood's "Hall of Fame."

It has just been discovered that the block of cement, in which the actress left her footprints at Grauman's Chinese theater, has been covered over by a newly-erected box office.

BIGAMY SUIT DECISION RESERVED

NEW YORK, (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Kenneth O'Brien after a hearing in chancery reserved decision today in a suit brought by Mrs. Marion Gustin Allgeyer, of New Orleans, who seeks to collect approximately $900,000 from a man she accused of marrying her while he already had a wife and children.

Mrs. Allgeyer declared the defendant, Howard E. Spaulding, had failed to keep a promise to give her half of a $2,000,000 legacy for remaining silent about the allegedly bigamous marriage.

Attorneys for Spaulding produced a New York banker, Lawrence S. Critchell, who said he had been involved in a similar marital mix up with Mrs. Allgeyer before she met Spaulding.

Critchell testified that within a year after meeting her, in 1922, he became "very much enamored," and married her under the name of "Sanford J. Clarke," of Waukegan, Ill. He already had a wife at the time, he said.

PREVIOUS DIVORCE
A year later, when Mrs. Allgeyer sued him for divorce, he appeared as a witness in her behalf under his right name, Critchell said, testifying "her husband" was cruel to her.

Mrs. Allgeyer testified she became Spaulding's wife at Milwaukee in 1925 and shortly afterward learned he had a wife and children.

After reserving decision in Mrs. Allgeyer's suit, Justice O'Brien began hearing testimony in a counter action brought by Spaulding who seeks $100,000 he gave the woman.

Spaulding himself went on the stand and testified it was the persuasive arguments of Mrs. Allgeyer which caused him to marry her.

His defense counsel, Harold Medina, asked him:
"Do you recall the time you went to Chicago in the spring of 1925?"

Spaulding answered "yes," and went on to say that he had gone to Chicago on business, intending to stay not more than three months.

MET HER AT PARTY
Then he met Marion Gustin he said at a party. He said that during the course of the evening, with Miss Gustin present, he mentioned he had a wife and children and showed the group pictures of them.

The following day, he said, he met Miss Gustin at his room in the Hotel Webster. After that, he testified, he met her every few days.

Medina asked: "When did you first try to become intimate with her?"

"About 10 days or two weeks after the first meeting," Spaulding answered.

"What did she do?"
"She laughingly declined," Spaulding said, said Spaulding, Miss Gustin asserted she would engage in no intimacies unless he married her.

"But I'm married already," Spaulding said he told her, and continued: "She argues that marriage laws are man made and that we could get married in Milwaukee secretly."

Medina asked: "Well, what did you do?"

"Well, I wanted her very badly and the more I thought of what she had said about these laws being made by man, the more reasonable it seemed to me. So we agreed to be married under assumed names."

Wolf Must Wear Sheep's Clothes From Now On

HACKENSACK, N. J. (AP)—It was down in black and white today that Joseph Wolf was on the water wagon—"except on special occasions"—and that his wife was "boss over the house and children."

Signed, sealed and delivered to Mrs. Anna Wolf was his pledge, that "I will drink whiskey only on Christmas, Thanksgiving, New Year's, at weddings and births and so forth."

"I am sorry for the trouble I have caused my wife and children during my married life," read another clause in the pledge, drawn up by an 18-year-old daughter.

Judge Lloyd L. Schroeder approved the document and permitted withdrawal of a charge of intoxication Wolf's wife had lodged against him.

'Crystal Gazing' Charge Is Filed

SAN BERNARDINO, (AP)—William Bundy was charged today with the attempted murder of John Gerhardt, night club operator, in a complaint signed by the latter's wife, known as "Madame Sophie," a crystal ball mystic.

Bundy was wounded by a shotgun blast last month, and is in a serious condition in the Loma Linda hospital.

The accused man, who has a $75,000 alienation of affections suit pending against the Gerhardts, told police he shot Gerhardt in self defense. In his allegations suit, Bundy charged that Mrs. Gerhardt and her crystal ball were responsible for breaking up his home.

DRUNK CHARGES
William L. Jackson, 45, Long Beach, was booked in the county jail yesterday following his arrest on drunk driving charges by Huntington Beach police.

Willard School Notes

Howard Bedford, Lane Wright, Ray Marsile, Ed Robinson, Joel Hayes, and Eugene Murphy were made the joint committeemen for the Girl Reserve-Hi-Y dance to be held at the Y. W. C. A. the first week in December.

At the November 18 weekly meeting of the Willard Hi-Y club, Herbert Michel, leader, appointed Joel Hayes, Eugene Murphy, Lane Wright, and Ed Robinson to give a panel discussion on sports at the next meeting December 3. The members must attend at least three out of five meetings unless excused, or be barred from the club, Mr. Michel explained. "New members are required to come three times before they are voted in," he concluded.

Bob Wood, the brilliant young American cartoonist, presented "Dramatic Adventures with Chalk" for the benefit of Willard students, Wednesday, November 17, in the school auditorium.

Wood is a master of crayon and uses the world's largest easel, with elaborate electrical effects. With surprising stunts, wit, and humor, he easily ranks as America's outstanding cartoonist. This is the second in a series of play assemblies to be given for Willard students.

Miss Leona Caulkins, of the Lathrop branch of the public library, had on display during book week, an interesting collection of the original drawings and letters from the illustrators of children's books. Willard English and art teachers were among those invited to attend a lecture and tea, at Lathrop, November 17.

Among the illustrators and authors contributing to this interesting collection were Carl Moon, Lola Lenski, James Daugherty, Emma Brock, Kurt Wiese, Robert Lawson, Dorothy Lathrop, and Maud and Miska Petershaw.

Jacquelyn Gehrig was elected president of the Seventh Grade Girl Reserves at a recent meeting. "We have decided to elect a new president each month and a new secretary and treasurer every other month, so every girl will have a chance to be an officer," Jacquelyn said.

The reserves had a winter bake at the Santiago park November 19, 3:00 o'clock until 5:00. Percy Crump, father of Marjorie Crump, took the girls to and from the park.

All boys were invited to bring parents and friends to a boy's Thanksgiving service, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. at the First Methodist Church, Wednesday, November 24, at 7:30 p. m.

Herbert Thomas, a sponsor, opened the program by playing a piano prelude. The Mohawk, Iroquois, and Cherokee Friendly Indian Tribe called the group to worship. A hymn, led by Herbert Scott, was sung by the assembly.

Then followed the friendly Indian Tribe which gave a responsive reading. Robert Sullivan, played a special violin solo, "Andante," by Tchaikowski.

A series of six short talks including, "We are Thankful for Help," by Robbie Stauffer; "We are Thankful for Home," and "We are Thankful for God," Cherie; "We are Thankful for Nature," Terry Ragan.

Miss Vanche Plumb spoke on the contribution of authors to the world, at the second regular P. T. A. meeting, Tuesday, November 23, in the Willard Library. The talk was based on a collection of illustrations and letters from authors of books collected by Miss Leona Caulkins, librarian at Lathrop.

Twelve ninth grade students gave book reports, a tribute for book week. Those taking part were Marguerite Baker, Dexter Ball, Mary Jane Tetzger, Robert Sullivan, Helen Butler, Mary Jo Haskell, Genevieve Wessman, Elaine Read, Beatrice Gonzalez, Howard Bedford, Bob Nelson, and Jack Howard.

The Mexican Girl Reserves presided over by Rita Feliz had a pot luck dinner at the Y. W. C. A.

Friday, November 12. The older Girl Reserves and the Younger played ping pong and sang. The party proved both educational and amusing to everyone.

The Eighth Grade Girl Reserves are now planning a Christmas party, to be held in the Y. W. C. A. building, December 1. Jean Ann Randall will act as chairman for the game committee, while Mildred Gibson will plan the refreshments. The girls will exchange gifts, each drawing the name of another member. The room will be decorated in the habitual Christmas colors.

Wednesday, October 20, marked the beginning of a craft workshop, at the Y. W. C. A. open to all teen age girls, who have been meeting Wednesday from 3:00 to 5:00 p. m.

Experiments of all kinds of craft work are being made, the materials costing very little. Pottery, carving hangings, and experimenting with leather, are examples of the different kinds of work the girls expect to cover while taking the course.

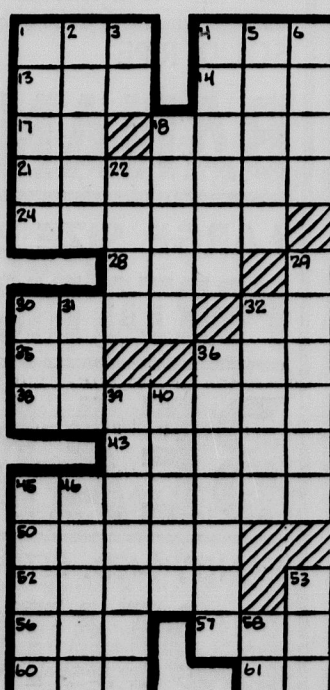

Helen Holzgrafe's Nine I volleyball team defeated Maxine Hilliard's Eighth I, Tuesday, November 16, with a score of 42-29. Elaine Road's Nine II was victorious over Pauline Kiesch's Eighth II, 29-16. Janet Coffing's Eighth III triumphed over Seven I, captured by Dorothy Bullock, 23-16. With a score of 24-20 Dorothy Bruhn's Seven III won over Elizabeth Brown's Seven II.

Winners of games played Wednesday, November 17, were Nine I against Seven I with a score of 40-15. Nine II beat Eight I.

BEEF BRINGS RECORD PRICE

CHICAGO, (AP)—An all-time high price of $1.10 a pound was bid today for the champion of the junior feeding contest at the International Livestock exposition.

Homor Graber, Mineral Point, Wis., farm youth, sold the junior titleholder, "Jerry," at auction to representatives of the Stevens hotel, Chicago. The animal weighed 1200 pounds, making the sale price $1320.

The sale of Graber's steer, a Hereford, which was considered in final judging for the grand championship of the show, started the auction of 300 animals raised by junior farmers.

The reserve champion of the junior contest sold for 51 cents a pound, more than double the 25 cents paid last year. Jack Mahlstadt of Geneseo, Ill., had the reserve winner, an Aberdeen Angus. Its sale weight was 1130 pounds, making the steer worth $576.30. A Chicago restaurant bought it.

II, 50-24. In a very close game Eight III won over Seven I, 22-20. With a score of 36-18 Eight III defeated Seven III.

In games played Thursday, November 18, Nine I triumphed over Eight II, 35-17. Nine II was victorious over Eight III with a score of 27-15. With a score of 37-24 Eight I beat Seven I. Seven III won over Seven II, 32-18.

Norma Denner's seventh grade volleyball team and Ruth Hutchinson's eighth grade team won a contest which has been held in Mrs. M. D. Scott's P. E. classes the last week of volleyball. On Wednesday, November 23, the winning teams were allowed to do anything they wished during their P. E. period. In both classes the teams chose to play indoors.

D football season closed with a bang, club two winning four games, tying one and not losing any. Clubs four, three and one tied for second place, each winning one game, tying one, and losing three.

"We have had one of the finest bunches of football players we've ever had," Coach Lund remarked. "Elvin Hoots was the best manager we've ever had. He has never missed a game and is about the most regular person I've ever seen," Coach Lund concluded.

Squad four, captained by Darlene Burnett, was the winner of the volleyball contest which has been taking place in the last two weeks of volleyball, in Miss Anderson's block II seventh grade P. E. class. Catherine Andrade, Lois Bacon, Mildred Burk, Betty Graves, Margaret O'Campo, Helen Mendoza, Dorothy Robbins, Josephine Romero, and the Sheppard, Kathleen Tiernan and Ethel Williams are members of the winning team.

Betty Jean McMillen's squad five was the winner in the block III ninth grade class. Members of this squad are Laura Mae Carey, Jordis Gold, Virginia Gray, Clara Lee McMillen, Carman Manual, Dorothy Raitt, Patsy Sheppard, Rose Marie Simcox, and Edna Tate.

FROM THE FRYING PAN TO THE FIRE
By BOB GUILD

Now all the Dons and Saints have to do is run out and run up some scores tonight and tomorrow afternoon. Everything else is taken care of.

They had a victory luncheon yesterday, everybody agreed it was mighty nice to have three champions in town. Bill Henry explained that Occidental beat Pomona this year, and 150 abashed huskies introduced each other to 1000 service clubmen.

However, this column reiterates that smart money says it's 3-5 on San Bernardino tonight.

And Ardie Pierce of Santa Barbara says the northern Dons are pretty tough.

And the only Santa Ana team that has the championship its after all sewed up, sealed and delivered is the Sophomore 11 from the High school.

In spite of the fact that Cook's men stumbled and bumbled and barely escaped with a 7-7 tie against the Indians Oct. 15, they look like at least an even-money bet this evening.

Jerry Nesmith, Dick Tauber, Charley Mueller and Bob Paul will be limping, but ready to go. Danny Boyd is back in the game.

We trust to Coach Cook's more varied offensive, better balanced backfield and sterling defensive line to come through with the decision—all other things being equal. We trust it, however, with fingers crossed.

Like coaches, we are fond, right now, of declaring "the breaks will make the winner."

No one is going to care, but there is the matter of the UCLA-USC cellar battle at Los Angeles tomorrow afternoon.

The day after watching UCLA play the mighty California Bears off their feet in the Coliseum, I came back, and writing fearlessly under Paul Wright's name, predicted the Bruins would knock the spots of Howard Jones' boys.

I am not the one to renig at this late date, although the courageous stand against the Irish last week was a surprise. I still think Messrs. Washington and company can put the warhorse into the cellar stable for the first time in 10, these many years.

I am not a betting man, however.

Nobody knows what Santa Barbara can do, outside of the fact they won a district championship.

They pass, they lateral, and the chances are they have a line to go with it—any team that builds up the point record the Dons boast must have.

And yet, for no particular reason, the Saints are solid favorites for tomorrow's CIF clash.

If they play the over-the-head football tomorrow they did against Long Beach Poly last week they're in. If they come untinged, as the best of teams sometimes do, and high school teams often, they're out.

Or is that logic? At least they're going to be forced to play a whale of a game. Santa Barbara has come too far, and too fast, to be taken lightly.

Happy to announce you probably won't have to go to the bowl till about 6:15 tomorrow night, after all.

The city has installed 1300 extra seats, bringing the bowl's capacity to about 10,000.

You're extremely likely to find yourself viewing the game from on foot just the same, if you get there within 45 minutes of game time.

Fog and rain expected, the season's record crowd is expected.

Minors End Swap Session

SIX-PLAYER DEAL TOPS PARLEYS

By PAUL MICKELSON

MILWAUKEE. (AP) — National Leaguers kept their hands in their pockets and held out for sharp bargains on the baseball market, eight American League players prepared for changes of scenery up and down the river today.

With them went an American League cast-off and a good looking rookie. The deals, only important ones pulled by the magnates after three days of buzzing and talking, were:

St. Louis Browns traded Outfielder Joe Vosmik to the Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Buck Newsum, Outfielder Colonel Buster Mills and the veteran infielder, Ralph "Red" Kress, an old Brown hand who made a comeback with Minneapolis of the American Association last season.

DEAL SURPRISES

Detroit swapped Outfielder Gerald Walker, Third Baseman Marvin Owen and Mike Tresh, 23-year-old catcher who served with Portland of the Pacific Coast League, to the Chicago White Sox in exchange for Pitcher Vernon Kennedy, Outfielder Fred "Dixie" Walker and Infielder Tony Piet.

It was the six-player deal between the White Sox and Tigers, which broke the calm of the market, one of the dearest in years at the minor league convention. Advised of the deal, the Red Sox and Browns went into a huddle and surprised everybody with their swap. Other clubs, notably Cleveland and Washington, now are expected to come up with something good in the way of deals by the time the major league meetings in Chicago close next week.

WALKER WAS LIKED

Nobody was every excited about the Brown-Red Sox trade but the transaction between the White Sox and Tigers caused considerable commotion and comment. Sifting it all, one finds both clubs did well for their respective setups.

The Tigers needed a good pitcher and got it in Kennedy. The 28-year old right hander won 21 and lost 9 in 1936 but developed a wild streak last season that cut his record to 14 wins and 13 losses. The White Sox needed a third baseman to replace Manager Jimmy Dykes and a hard hitting outfielder and they got them, too, in Owen and the eccentric Walker. Those three players were the key to the deal. The others may find themselves operating at different pastures next season.

Gerald Walker, whose departure is sure to cause some grumbling among the Detroit fans who liked his antics and power hitting, ought to give the Dykes men the punch they missed so sorely last season. Gerald hit .353 in '36 and .335 last season.

MAJORS NEXT

At first glimpse anyway the Red Sox seemed to have all the better of the Brown deal. Newsum, a temperamental flinger who was with the Browns in '34 and '35, didn't satisfy the Yawkey crowd after joining them from Washington last season, winning 13 and losing 10. Neither did Mills, a hustler, be a light hitter. Kress never set the league on fire when he was in it with the Browns, White Sox and Washington, yet, recalling all the "bloomers" picked up by General Manager Eddie Collins during the last few years, many baseball men button-holed each other and asked: "What do you suppose is wrong with Vosmik?" Vosmik, however, had a good season in '37 with the Browns, batting .325 in 144 games.

Except for a possible last minute deal and a perfunctory windup of the minor league convention, which failed to produce any interesting news, the baseball market was expected to be deserted by nightfall. The minor leaguers looked up train schedules for home while the major leaguers went to Chicago where the long-awaited trade of Pitcher Van Mungo of Brooklyn to either New York, Chicago or Pittsburgh could be announced. Last reports were the Giants held the trump card for the big fire ball man.

This Tide Doesn't Ebb—And It's Rose Bowl Bound

The Golden Bears of California will attempt a King Canute against this array of bone-bruising talent Jan. 1 at Pasadena, when they attempt to stem the Crimson Tide of Alabama, which these four talented gridgers represent. Left to right, they are Hughes, Holm, Zivich and Kilgrow. They've romped over everything in the South.

Troy, Rice Called In Winner's Poll

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK. (AP)—Call this the swan-song of an ugly duckling or the farewell fol-de-rol of a gridiron guesser, about to quit the eight-ball for commodious winter quarters among the moth-balls. To make a short story even shorter, prospects for this week's slender schedule appear about as follows: Southern Methodist-Rice: This determines the Southwest conference crown and a Cotton Bowl opponent for Whizzer White and his University of Colorado buddies. S. M. U.'s Mustangs have been picking up tremendous momentum in the stretch but this ballot goes to Rice in the belief that Ernie Lain's pitching arm has lost none of its power or cunning.

SEABISCUIT, BRUJO RACE

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Seabiscuit, Charles S. Howard's champion American money winner and Amor Brujo, the South American mystery horse, may compete against one another for the first time in the $10,000-added Santa Anita Handicap at Tanforan Dec. 18.

Howard said today he was anxious to see how Seabiscuit will run against Amor Brujo before entering his horse in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

A. E. Silver, trainer of the South American horse, said Amor Brujo would be entered in the San Francisco Handicap and the $250,000-added Half-Moon mile handicap a week from Saturday.

U.S.F. to Face Texas A.M.

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—A band of pass-tossing and hard-blocking Texas A. & M. football players arrives here today for tomorrow's game with University of San Francisco.

The Texans, beaten this season by Baylor and Arkansas, are reported as strong as last year when they rolled six touchdowns in the second half to defeat the Dons, 38 to 14.

It will be U. S. F.'s third game this season against a Texas outfit, the Dons having beaten Daniel Baker college, 21 to 0, and St. Mary's of Texas, 7 to 0.

MILLS HOOP TEAM WINS

Defeated, with three minutes left in the game, Santa Ana Woolen Mills basketball club came from behind last night to take the measure of the powerful Long Beach Pacific Coast club quintet, 24-23, at the Y. M. C. A. court.

Trailing all the way, with the score standing 11-7 against them at the half, the local eagles started firing away at the basket in the final minutes, sinking the winning basket with but seconds to play.

Tonight the Quentin Matzen basketballers take on Fullerton Junior college there.

Tommy Lacy led the final spurt, snagging high scoring honors with eight points.

RASSLERS IN SAME OLD CONTORTIONS

By BOB GUILD

I hate to tell you this, boys and girls, but rasslin's still rasslin', no matter what stage it's in.

Last night at the Orange County Athletic club a troupe of performers from that haywire city of Hollywood went through their routine—press-agented as "Real Wrestling at Last!"

Their imposters are a bit lighter, and as a consequence they dash about a bit more meaningfully, but otherwise you couldn't tell the difference.

The ringside is as partisan as ever—and don't think those prima donnas in the center don't pull all the tricks they can out of their bags to keep it so.

HEROES CONQUER

As usual, every match had a villain—and a hero. As usual, the hero always won in a split-second finish. As usual, it all looked very horrible indeed, but when it ended it ended, and hatches were buried with surprising unanimity.

Oh well. There'll still be plenty of people who like vaudeville.

PANTHER WINS

Wild Red Berry of Kansas stopped Monty La Due, the Apache assassin, in two falls, after dropping the first. La Due won his in 16:42; Berry his in 3:49 and 7:22. The clinical details show La Due employed a leg lock for his fall, Berry a leg lock and a leg lock. In between, the two were sundry choking and kicking.

The Black Panther whipped nasty Danny Savich in two straight falls, after provoking a near-riot at ringside by his uncouth tactics. Time of the first was 18:51, second 7:43.

Mar Allah beat Zibzy Zyzko with a hammerlock, in 18:32. Pete Elcastro trimmed Johnny La Due in 13:51 with a reverse split.

Veteran Captures Midget Feature

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Louis Durrant, veteran midget auto driver, pulled the season's biggest surprise out of the fog last night when he captured the 50-lap feature at Gilmore Speedway from a field of favored rivals.

Durant's time was 13 minutes 35-65 seconds. Roy Rusing finished second, Sam Hanks third and Karl Young fourth.

Peggy Graham Divot Champion

PASADENA. (AP)—Peggy Graham of Hollywood's Lakeside club is the new woman's champion of Pasadena golfers.

Her 72-hole total was 312, even par, and 13 strokes less than the runner-up, Mrs. Gregg Lufur of Santa Monica's Riviera club.

Title Teams To Shoot Works At Bowl Tonight

Presenting in this corner the defending Eastern Junior College conference football champions of 1936, Santa Ana's Dons . . . In this corner the challengers for the crown, San Bernardino's Indians . . .

That is the "Big Game" set up for 7:30 tonight in the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl, where the two outstanding junior college football teams of Southern California tear into each other in an effort to bring about a settlement of their disputed claim. The story is an old one. The Dons were lucky to get out of the Oct. 15 contest with a 7-7 deadlock. The Indians showed that they had a team which would be a real contender for the title, and tonight will make a determined bid for their first crown since 1928.

DING-DONG BATTLE

Sixty full minutes of the widest open football ever put on in the bowl with plenty of passes, reverses, laterals and spread formations will be the order of affairs on the turf, while 10,000 football-mad fans sit in on the battle.

Neither team will be holding back on its bag of trick plays. It should be the ding-dongest fight ever waged by two Eastern division football eleveners for the championship. The bag of plays which were previewed at San Berdo, Oct. 15, will be completely dumped out for the inspection of the expected overflow crowd.

Odds will stand even when the teams meet at kickoff. What advantage there is will be held by the invaders, who almost completely played the Dons off their feet. It might be termed a lucky tie for Coach Bill Cook's gang and a tough one for Coach Doug Smythe.

BOTH BETTER

That edge will go by the boards by game time. Neither team will need the aid of "fight talks" to fire them up for the all-important tilt. The Dons are on edge for the first time in a month. They have a record of 21 consecutive games without a defeat to protect their title against the California crown to defend.

The two teams which take the field tonight will be the same in lineups, but improved outfits defensively and offensively. Both have scored heavily on conference teams, running up similar scores. Here are their respective records. They are both good.

SAINTS FAVORED OVER GAUCHOS TOMORROW

PRICE DOWN FOR GAME TOMORROW

The glory and fame of pigskin honors which have evaded the clutches of Santa Ana High school's football team since the "Saint Reign" of '31 and '32 comes back tomorrow afternoon in the Municipal Bowl where Coach W. W. (Bill) Foot's preppers will attempt to shackle a razzle-dazzle outfit from Santa Barbara in the semi-final round of the C. I. F. football championship.

Kickoff time is scheduled for 2 o'clock. The price of admission has been lowered from 75 cents to 50 cents at the request of Santa Ana High school officials to Seth Van Patten, commissioner of the C. I. F.

SAINTS FAVORED

After tripping their old playmates of the Coast League, Long Beach, last Saturday, the Saints were one step nearer the Southland crown. Two other teams will be battling in the semi-final round, Glendale and El Monte, with the winner clashing with the victor in the local joust in the Rose Bowl next week. If the Saints play the type of ball they did against the Jack-rabbits, whom they crushed, 15 to 12, they should thump the Dons, who have gone through an undefeated season and already have gone past two playoff tilts.

DONS VERSATILE

Here is a description of the Don team which rolled up 179 points to their opponents' 19.

"The Dons play a wide-open game of football this year. They have taken to the air with startling results. They use a screwy spread formation, the brainchild of Coach Clarence Schutte, and it works. From it they pass and run, the back generally deciding after he has the ball which looks like the best prospect." That from Ardie Fier, sports editor of the Santa Barbara News-Press.

Pass defense and a line to stop the razzle-dazzle has been worked on this week on Poly field. Last week the Saints showed surprising agility in stopping the Beach City aerial tactics. There'll be 11 alert boys on the Saints team. They stopped Long Beach and they know they have just as good a chance against the Northerners.

Again the broad-shouldered plunging fullback, Bill Musick, will take over the brunt of the attack. His pile driving line smashes from reverses and fake reverses completely took the life out of the Rabbits and as then the Footmen will go as he makes out.

PIPER TO PLAY

Santa Ana's fighting line will have only one change in it. Charles Pride will occupy right tackle in place of Larry Stump. The lineup will find Capt. Don Warhurst and Milton Smith at the wings, Pride and Monte Kieper at tackle, Bob Maddock and Dick Horton at the guard posts and Bob Webb centering the ball.

Wayne Piper, the speedy little back who received a hip injury last week, is a doubtful starter in the backfield. Bill Collins will

DUCK, YOUSE GUYS, DUCK! Kingfish the Murder Is Here

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO. (AP)—King Levinsky, one time night mayor and pride of Maxwell Street, swelled his chest with a sucking-in sound today until the buttons of his coat nearly popped off.

It was preliminary to an announcement of tremendous importance to him.

"Hey, you Louie," he belted, pulling up in front of a beer tavern. "You're just the guy I'm looking for."

"I want to make it a wrestle," he parried, squinting his eyes. "There ain't no more mazzuma for me fighting any more. From now on I'm a wrestler, a murder of the mat."

The strapping Kingfish, who earned $300,000 with his fists since 1929 and then lost it, is going in for what he regards as important dough grunting and growling on the mat. The individual he wants to meet is none other than Bronko Nagurski. Recognized here and there as heavy-weight champion.

"I gave all them big guys hell in the ring, didn't I?" He quizzed. "You tell 'em pal. Now, I'm going to do the same thing in a wrestle. I'm still the King. I'm tough if they get fresh with me. I'll pin their ears lop-sided. Too bad my sister Lena ain't here to back me up. She knows I'm a tough guy. Hotcha."

The Kingfish, who fought them all creditably until he met up with Joe Louis, weighs 220 pounds. At the age of 26 he is as flat in the pocketbook as the herrings he once sold. Automobiles, supporting numerous relatives and a losing business venture in a Maxwell street spot called "The King's Palace," ate up his earnings. His last important engagement was against a Britisher named Jack Conley, whom he flattened in two rounds in London last summer.

ROQUET, BOYD ON COOK'S ALL-TIME DON ELEVEN

Coach A. J. (Bill) Cook's mythical all-time Santa Ana Junior college football eleven was two men stronger today with the addition of Russell (Rusty) Roquet and Danny Boyd, it was revealed exclusively yesterday by El Don, jaycee weekly newspaper.

Les McLennan and John Joseph, freshmen from Escondido and Lincoln High schools, were honored by their mentor with second-string nominations stamping them as the two best frosh prospects for next year's Don football team. Cook had to do some shifting to place Roquet. Miles Norton, '33, went to guard with Loren Lukens, '33, taking a second string berth. Boyd replaced Al Kluth, '30, who took over Ray Handy's post.

McLennan took over fullback post which was held down by Lloyd Manderscheid, '29. Joseph took over a wing which went for two years to Co-Capt. Allen Titenor, '35-'36.

The mythical team now includes George Warner and Harold Hylton of the '29 championship team,

BIG TEN MAY SLATE COAST CONTESTS

By WILLIAM WEEKES

CHICAGO. (AP)—Michigan and Notre Dame were ready to "make up" and there was talk of augmenting athletic relationships with the Pacific coast conference today as the Big Ten opened its two-day winter meeting.

The Wolverines and Irish, potential natural rivals in football, reached the parting of gridiron ways 28 years ago after an eligibility dispute. All athletic traffic between the institutions was suspended after the 1923 conference track and field meet, then open to outside schools, in which the late Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, took the other side in a Michigan protest over the running of the high hurdles race.

Athletic Director Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, revealed that the breach was healed in announcing Tuesday night that Wolverine coaches would be permitted to schedule games with the Irish. Yost indicated that conversations with Elmer Layden, Irish athletic chief, might lead to resumption of football warfare. Renewal of gridiron relationships will have to wait until 1940, however, since both institutions have arranged their cards for 1938 and 1939.

While nothing official had been said, there were reports that the conference and Pacific coast league football champions meet annually in post-season combat. This would mean altering the Big Ten's rule against games after the close of the regular season. There was precedent, however, for an annual meeting in track and field between selected teams from the two groups was started last season.

Willowick Women Hold Tournament

Mrs. F. Paul Adams and Mrs. P. A. Hooven shared honors yesterday in the women's low gross and low net tournament over Willowick Country club's course. Mrs. Adams took low gross honors with a 93; Mrs. Hooven captured net with a score of 105-25-80.

Football Fever Runs High Before Bruin-Troy Game

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Rival campuses of University of California at Los Angeles and Southern California teemed with pre-game enthusiasm today on the eve of the grid struggle between the Bruins and the Trojans.

Out at the Westwood stronghold of the Uclans signs reading "Trip the Trojans" were plastered on student automobiles.

Southern California prepared to hold a monster "home-coming" dinner tonight.

From the practice fields word came that Ambrose Schindler might get in the game at quarterback for Troy.

Nine Loyals to End Careers With Gonzaga Game

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Nine Loyola football players will end their college playing days Sunday in the season's finale with Gonzaga.

Heading the senior group are Harry Acquarrelli, halfback, and Hank Sartoris, fullback, who has been out for several weeks with injuries.

CARRIES THE MAIL MINNEAPOLIS. (AP)—Marty Christiansen, Minnesota sophomore fullback, received more than 50 fan letters from patients at a children's sanitarium in St. Paul following his performance in the Michigan game.

BRITISH TOP GERMANS IN CITIZEN CLASS

The British are coming—and the Germans are staying home.

In terms of allegiance, that's what's happening in Orange county, according to a tabulation of nearly three score candidates for American citizenship who will take the semi-annual naturalization examinations Dec. 15 in superior court.

Germany used to furnish the lion's share of naturalization material here. Recently Hitler's country has dropped to second place—but this year it hits a new low, with only three applicants for American citizenship.

29 BRITISH
Britain, however, is getting bigger delegations in naturalization classes here. This time more than half the class is British. Seventeen out of the 29 British subjects in the class are from Canada.

Belgium, usually represented with two or three candidates, now steps up to second place with five. Italy and Germany each have three; Switzerland, France, Spain, Austria, Norway and Mexico are represented by two each; Sweden, Denmark, Syria, Poland and Russia each have one.

17 LIVE IN SANTA ANA

Seventeen of the class are residents of Santa Ana, eight live in Anaheim, five each in Huntington Beach and Fullerton, four each in Orange and Laguna Beach, three each in Newport Beach and Costa Mesa, and the rest are scattered.

Important To Have A Hero

By DALE CARNEGIE

Do you have a hero? I've always felt that it's a good thing for every man or woman to pick out some leader in history and study his life, and then try to inculcate in his own daily career the principles that made that man successful.

For example, Bismarck is a hero of mine. I mentioned H. H. Timken, founder of the Timken Roller Bearing company. Napoleon was the idol of Frank Woolworth, the founder of the five-and-ten cent store chain.

Homer Croy, who wrote that splendid novel of American life—"West of the Water Tower"—holds as his hero Arnold Bennett. Einstein's hero, during his younger days, was Pascal, the great mathematician. As for me, my hero is Abraham Lincoln. I spent three years writing a book about him. Who is your hero?

If you want to get ahead in business, one of the biggest handicaps is the habit of talking too much. I spoke in Toronto at Massey Hall, on how to win friends and influence people. The next morning a chap stopped in at my hotel and told me that I should have used more illustrations from Canadian leaders. He could have told me that in three sentences, but he took up twenty minutes of my time in order to get that message over to me. This is a hurried age we're living in—if you've got anything to say, say it quickly, get to the point, and give the other man a chance to talk.

Earl Chapin May is an authority on circuses. I don't know how many magazine articles he has written about them. I mentioned I had graduated from college in Warrensburg, Mo.

"Did you ever hear of it?" I asked.

"Sure, I have. It's a thirty-car town."

I was at a loss to know what he meant, and he explained that circuses people considered it large enough to send thirty cars there. I felt pretty proud.

Good news for explorers: One of the most fertile undeveloped territories in America belongs to you personally. It is situated right under your hat. Move in and develop it.

Every afternoon before dinner Frank A. Munsey, the newspaper publisher, took a nap. "It's my cocktail," he once said. "It's a drink that will mix with any business."

CRUELTY TO DOPE FIENDS ATTACKED

NEW ORLEANS, La., (AP)—Formation of a society for the prevention of cruelty to narcotic addicts was suggested today in a study of successful treatment of the habit by two officers of the U. S. public health service.

Reporting to the Southern Medical association, Dr. Lawrence K. Kilb, medical director of the service, and Dr. W. F. Ossenfort of the National Narcotic farm at Lexington, Ky., said many addicts can be restored to normal life by proper treatment and a sympathetic attitude from the public.

Many persons have been "cured of the narcotic habit" by being treated "as patients to be cured," instead of being imprisoned, since the narcotic farm was opened in 1935, Dr. Kilb declared. Society must recognize, he said, that it will benefit economically as well as socially in treating narcotic addiction as a disease.

The "rational treatment" evolved by the service after long experience consists of gradual withdrawal of the narcotic from a patient, restraining him as little as possible, and providing work and recreation which will restore physical strength and eliminate the need for stimulants, Dr. Kilb said. In addition to this treatment, he added, thorough psychological examinations are made on every patient in order to stimulate mental resistance to narcotic temptation after release, and every effort is made to place patients in a better social surroundings in which they can work normally and be free from tendencies toward their old habits.

Many cases of narcotic addiction "seem to be hopeless, but in the absence of organic deterioration one should never despair of effecting eventual cure," the public health surgeons declared.

Even before the advent of the talking picture sound rights to many properties sold to the motion picture industry were reserved. Companies refiling such stories have to pay an additional amount for the talking rights.

Agent Loses Suit Against Shirley

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The appeal of Jack Hays, agent who claims "discovery" of Shirley Temple, child screen star, from his unsuccessful $500,000 breach of contract suit was denied by the district court of appeal.

Hays named Shirley, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Temple, and Twentieth Century-Fox Film corporation as defendants, setting forth that in 1932 he entered into a contract with the Temples who gave him exclusive services of the child for two years, with an option to renew the contract for another two year period.

Superior Judge Robert W. Kenny dismissed the case, upholding a defense demurrer that Shirley was not a party to the litigation.

BUILD DETOUR AT LANDSLIDE

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Work will begin in a few days on a new bypass highway around the 1,000,000 ton slide which came off Elysian park's "moving mountain" and blocked Riverside drive, City Engineer Lloyd Aldrich said today.

Aldrich said he received authorization for the work from Earl Lee Kelly, state director of public works, at a conference yesterday in Sacramento.

The plan provides for expenditure of $25,000 to build a 40 foot roadway around the slide area. At top speed, the work may be completed within 40 days, Aldrich said.

Claim Movies Hurt Children's Eyes

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Too many children are going unchaperoned to movies, and many of them are injuring their eyes by staying through two shows, the California Federation of Women's clubs has decided.

The federation's executive board, finishing a two-day meeting here yesterday, showed concern over the motion picture attendance situation as it affects children, and voted to ask individual clubs to do something about it.

In another resolution, the executive board went on record urging that persons convicted of sexual crimes be made ineligible for release on probation.

JAPAN ... After 200 years of complete national isolation from the rest of the world, in a little more than a century the Japanese Empire has risen to a power of international importance in literary, artistic, military and scientific fields, none of which, strange as it seems, are their own. Buddhism is basically Japan's religion, and Christianity today stands on an even basis with it. Buddhism was introduced to Japan from Korea in 552 A. D. and in 1875 Christianity found a footing there with the founding of the Doshisha Theological school. Japan's written language also came from China, through Korea. However, as the Japanese spoken language differs from the Chinese, the monosyllabic characters of the Chinese were necessarily modified to fit the polysyllabic Japanese tongue. In 270 Korean ambassadors visited Japan, introducing the Chinese language which for more than 1000 years formed an important factor in Japan's educational system, injecting Confucianism into the foundation of Japan's moral and literary education. TUNNELLING IN Frosh: "If I had known that the tunnel was so long I would have kissed you." Co-ed: "Good heavens! Wasn't that you?" "Why are some women called Amazons?" "Because they're so wide at the mouth."

Try These on Your Lead Pencil

Santa Ana building material men, contractors, hardware merchants, architects, household appliance dealers and construction specialists and craftsmen of all types ought to be able to get up a real glow just reviewing some figures we have seen compiled.

They are based upon the idea of this country's building the 800,000 new homes per year for each of the coming five years which it is estimated are needed. This just to catch up on the existing national housing shortage.

In order to bring about such a program, President Roosevelt has recommended to congress certain measures to reduce the costs of construction financing. He appeals to the manufacturers and to labor similarly to reduce the other costs, namely of building materials and of payroll.

The figures to which we refer are based on the supposition that the 800,000 houses a year will cost an average of $4000 each, thus calling for a capital expenditure of $3,200,000,000. Of that, about one-third, or more than a billion dollars, would be paid in wages to carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers, electricians, painters, et al., who would work at the building sites. As a pump-priming proposition, that is as much in real wages for real work as WPA is spending for made work.

But that is only a beginning. Eight hundred thousand homes, at $4000 each, would require, each year—Six billion board feet of lumber, and 120 million man-hours of work for loggers, mill-workers, salesmen, clerks and others, and 48 million man-hours for railroad, truck and barge workers.

Thirty-six million, eight hundred thousand barrels of cement, meaning 16,198,000 man-hours of labor in quarrying and manufacturing, plus 2,318,400 man-hours of transportation labor.

Five hundred ten million, four hundred thousand pounds of nails, meaning 13,525,600 man-hours of employment to produce and 2,103,000 man-hours to transport.

We don't want to swamp you with statistics, but let your imagination play on a few of the other items that would be needed in the building of 800,000 homes:

22,400,000 cubic yards of stones or gravel.
1,520,000,000 linear feet of molding.
1,816,000,000 square feet of insulation.
4,800,000 barrels of lime.
27,200,000 gallons of paint and varnish.
10,400,000 sets of locks.
16,000,000 window and sash frames.
4,800,000 electric switches.
19,200,000 wall plugs.
9,600,000 light fixtures.
800,000 bathtubs.
800,000 medicine cabinets.
800,000 kitchen stoves.
800,000 water heaters.

And those are only a few of the scores of things that go into house-building, and that provide jobs for people who spend their wages cleaning out the shelves of merchants, who in turn re-fill their shelves by giving orders to factories and providing more jobs and more wages.

All of us, although we may not wield hammers and saws, have a big stake in the success of the President's plan.

Back in the Good Old Days

Because this is the Christmas season, a Journal reader has brought us a December copy of a magazine called The New Time. It was published, not this year, however, but in 1897. The cover contains the customary Santa Claus picture.

One of the leading articles deals with The Eight-Hour Day, which, the writer, John Stolze, M. D., remarks, "is now being agitated so vigorously in many quarters."

Rep. W. D. Vincent contributes a lengthy review of the work of the 55th congress, concluding, "Perhaps never before in the history of legislative bodies was so much time wasted and so little good accomplished in a given time." It was, indeed, he laments, an extraordinary session, "from beginning to end a huge farce, which would have been comical had it not been for the unfortunate condition of the country and the crying need of wholesome legislation." Have you ever heard anything like that in our time?

The editorials regret the passing of Henry George, bemoan a New York election triumph of Boss Platt, "with the moral support of the McKinley administration," and condemn a Philadelphia school board for refusing to allow Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables" to be read in a high school course. Ever hear of anything like that in our generation?

Among suggested Christmas gifts displayed in the advertising pages is a nifty shower bath ring. The picture shows a chubby matron (quite unlike our slenderized 20th century girls) standing in a tub with the ring around her neck and thus enjoying a shower without the water being spilled on the floor. Price $2, express additional 25 cents.

Lesson in French

Experiments in politico-economics here and abroad are teaching that wishes in that highly complicated field only infrequently come true.

We learn through experiment that hot pots will burn fingers, and that frequently a whole series of apparently stable devices and conditions of living are balanced up-rightly like rows of dominoes stood on end, and that throwing one item far off balance may topple a whole row.

The current French government cut the hours of coal miners arbitrarily from 48 to 44. It seemed like a good idea at the time. Shortly thereafter the price of coal bounded up 12 per cent, vitally affecting a major item in living costs, and compelling France to import coal for her vitally important armament construction program.

The harm is done and cannot be easily undone. Little acorns grow into big oaks, but not vice versa.

Theater
Fire Any Day Now!

By Westbrook
Pegler

This smart city is fixing to solemnize a great theater disaster one of these gala evenings, to be followed, no doubt, by a triple probe and more stringent regulations of the conduct of those gay, irresponsible drunks, male and female, who strike matches and fire up cigarette lighters during the show and smoke cigarettes all over the place during the intermissions.

The wonder is that the panic hasn't happened up to now, for the city firemen assigned to enforce regulations for the safety of the customers seem absolutely indifferent to risk which keep theater managers in constant state of fright and which, combined with the nuisance of smelly, chattering alcoholics, undoubtedly have driven some trade away from the box office.

The firemen, members of the regular fire department, are supposed to be present in their official capacity, not as guests, and they have authority to call the cops and prosecute. The regulations are based on disasters of the past and on the knowledge that a little flame, a whiff of smoke from a burning carpet or a cry of "fire!" may start a stampede.

WALK FOR EXIT

The old admonition to look about for the exit light and, in case of confusion, to walk, not run, to the nearest door is still presented amid the clutter of ads and credit lines in the program, but it is only a perfunctory nod to tragic experience in view of the fact that firemen on duty permit the customers to strike lights to read the lineup. Ushers sometimes put in a word or two about the exits, but they are poor flunkies without authority, and the man who is running the show does nothing, out of respect for the absurd dictum that the customer is always right, even though he burn down the house.

The boss may, if he feels tough enough about it, to make a fight, call a cop in from the sidewalk and make the complaint himself, but no showman wants to be a martyr in a suit for false arrest or kick up a row with some well known town inebriate while his show is going on.

So the responsibility is passed along to the city fireman, who is ballyhooed from time to time in rotogravure pictures of his acrobatics in the training school and who is assigned to the theater to full pay (an easy job for a loafer) to enforce certain plain, simple ordinances which are not arguable. The firemen, however, have been so tolerant or indolent for years that small liberties have grown into confirmed customs, and little fires blink among the audiences, particularly on opening nights, to the horror of all who have not had the foresight to get drunk and regardless, too.

PERILOUS RUM POTS

The risk is worst when the show is on. Women wear flimsy costumes and one unfortunate wench was ignited in a lobby one night, being saved when well ablaze by some resourceful buck who wrapped his dinner jacket about her. You go ahead and imagine what might have happened though, if she had burst into flame from stem to let us say, stern while reading the program by the light of a gasoline torch in the midst of the audience with the lights on.

Something very bad has happened to the theater audience in New York, anyway. It is, say, 80 per cent decent, but the peace, comfort and safety of the majority who go to the shows are violated by an element of rum pots of both sexes who come staggering in late, crawl over their betters to reach their seats, carry on their alcoholic babble above the reading of unhappy hams on the platform, and play with fire when in such a state that their own breath would burn like a blow torch.

The theater has searched its conscience earnestly for faults and found many in the writing, casting, acting and scenery, but one of these nights some smart showman, either on the stage or at the audience and with a firm, accurate punt in the pants kick him or her all the way up the aisle and across the lobby into the street.

There seems to be no hope of any preventive work by the firemen. Their job is to visit with the ushers, to dig out the bodies after the panic.

NOT A MAJORITY

Women's dresses are to be shorter this winter, and five women out of six don't like it. But if you think that five women out of six is a working majority in the world of fashion, you don't know much about women. — Houghton Line (Philadelphia).

WASHINGTON.—Highlight of President Taft's annual message to congress today was a note of warning to European powers to discourage discrimination against American trade. He also announced a drive for extension of civil service to all state department appointments and to encourage financial investment in China to enable that country to help herself.

A special charter election was set for Dec. 28 by the city council last night. The proposed new charter has been put in final form by the board of freeholders, it was announced at the council meeting.

Construction of three bridges in scattered parts of the county is nearly complete, County Surveyor McQuinn announced today. The bridges include one on Tustin avenue, one across Trabuca creek at Capistrano and one on West Fifth street.

SOFIA.—An Armistice will be signed today between Turkey and Serbia, with Greece still a questionable party. The Greeks may be left to continue the war alone against Turkey if they do not decide to sign the pact at the last minute.

I'll Tell You
By BOB BURNS

There use'ta be a saying that "you can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy," but that ain't true anymore. It's so easy to travel now that the line between the city and the country ain't no hurdle at all.

Not long ago, Grandpa Snazzy came back from a trip to the city and I says "I bet you felt mighty strange and out of place up there." Grandpa says "No, I didn't—I wasn't there more than a week when I fell right into their ways." He said "Why, I got so I could keep my seat in the street car with a lady standin' in front of me and I didn't feel a bit self-conscious."

Bright
Moments

Lord Byron, the English poet, when only a small boy, was on an ocean voyage with his friend Trelawney, going from Genoa to Greece. The captain of the ship, being fat and pompous, caught the eye of the young men, and later, when he appeared in a searlet waistcoat, they decided to steal it and see if it would fit around both of them. While the captain was sleeping one afternoon, they grabbed the coat, each put an arm in it, and jumped overboard. The crew laughed, and the captain, aroused by the noise, came on deck. Seeing what was up, he roared: "My lord, you should know better than to make a mutiny on my ship. I won't heave to or lower a ship; I hope you will both be drowned." Byron laughingly called back: "And if you don't, you'll not only lose the coat, but your freight as well."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

months later, since the changes will not apply to this year's returns anyway.

Also like the President, Vinson is convinced that the hurry-up drive on the two taxes is a smoke screen to jam through a sales tax.

In his key post as committee chairman, Vinson is in a strategic position to make his opinions stick—particularly because he is the only member of the committee who really knows what the tax fight is all about. (He is one of the few tax experts in congress.)

If Vinson were for immediate action, there would be tax legislation by Christmas. But he isn't—and that is where the President has the laugh on the boys in the senate. They can orate and belittle all they want, but except for making a lot of noise, they can't do a thing.

The next move is up to Judge-elect Vinson and he will not make it until some time in January.

HULL ILLUMINATION

Michael J. McDermott, press liaison officer of the state department, brought his young son, Mickey, aged four, to the department building on a recent holiday. "Daddy," asked Mickey, "is Secretary Hull here?"

"Not now, Sonny," said McDermott.

When they reached the fourth floor, Mickey remarked that the hall was very dark. "Why is it so dark, Daddy?" he asked.

"I guess somebody blew a fuse."

"Oh, then that's why Mr. Hull isn't here. He's gone out to buy a new fuse."

POLITICAL FISHING
The warm swells of the Gulf Stream are not the only waters in which the President will fish during his Florida junket. In fact, his piscatorial junket is partly a screen for more serious angling.

Privately, Roosevelt is anxious to see Florida's rookie Sen. Claude Pepper renominated next spring. Lister Hill win the January primary for Justice Black's senate seat. Young, able New Dealers, Roosevelt considers them the progressive type which the Democratic party needs in the South.

But eager as he is to help them, he will be impolitic to do so openly. Pepper's announced opponent, Rep. Mark Wilcox, also professes to be New Dealers—with reservations. However, there is more than one way to skin a cat.

Outwardly, Roosevelt will do no politicking for Pepper or Hill. But he will execute what is known in cloakroom parlance as the very potent rite of "laying on of hands" in a way voters won't miss.

Pepper and Hill will be seen prominently in his company, have their pictures taken with him and will be affectionately referred to as "Claude" and "Lister."

Wilcox and Heflin have not been invited to be around. The inference is obvious.

WAGE-HOUR FISHING

The President has still another unannounced mission on his Southern trip.

On return, he plans to do some quiet proselyting for the wage-hour bill among the eight governors of the southeastern governors' conference during his stopover in Gainesville, Ga., where he will dedicate a park.

Undercover, the conference has been sharpshooting at the wage-hour measure, and Roosevelt will try to persuade the governors to lay off. As they have favors to ask of him, he may be able to make a trade.

Note—Definitely not slated for benediction is Georgia's rabidly anti-New Deal Senator Walter George, who also comes up for re-election next year.

CAPITAL'S HIDEOUT

Over the years much has been said and little done about tax-exempt bonds.

So it is encouraging to see the treasury department come forward at last with an actual plan to do something. The plan advanced—one originated by Senator Carter Glass when he was secretary of the treasury 18 years ago—would not directly tax income now exempt.

For example, a man who gets $10,000 salary and $10,000 interest from tax-exempt bonds pays a tax on his salary income, but in making his tax return ignores the interest income. The Glass plan would require him to add his $10,000 salary on top of his $10,000 interest, and then on that $20,000 salary pay surtaxes in the $20,000 bracket, rather than, as at present, surtaxes in the $10,000 bracket.

Here's how it would work. In the case of a married man with no dependents:

Under the present law, $20,000 income ($10,000 earned income and $10,000 unearned interest on tax-exempt securities)—tax $1605.

Under the present law, $20,000 income ($10,000 earned income and $10,000 unearned interest on tax-exempt securities)—tax, $415.

Under the Glass plan, $20,000 income ($10,000 earned income and $10,000 unearned interest on tax-exempt securities)—tax, $802.50.

The Glass plan, from the viewpoint of revenue, is almost twice as good as the present system. But it is only half as good as complete elimination of tax exemptions. There is, in our opinion, no justifiable reason why a man who risks his money on private business should pay more taxes than another man who receives the same income from non-risk investments in tax-exempts.

To go the whole way would require a constitutional amendment. But why not amend the constitution? And why not start now?

Incidentally, a lot has been said lately about breaking the capital strike. The situation might be helped some by eliminating one refuge where striking capital hides—WASHINGTON NEWS.

A MARRIAGE LAW

There are several ways of halting the spread of venereal disease. One is to give persons an opportunity to take tests which will prove them diseased or not. Another is to make it compulsory for a physician's certificate, stating that the couple is free from venereal disease, be secured before a marriage license is issued.

Such an amendment to the marriage laws of Missouri has been suggested. It would do much to halt the spread of venereal disease in this state.—Columbia Missourian.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

HOW COME?

To the Editor: How does it come about that Colonel Berry in his green (or maybe, I should say yellow) sheet, is constantly attempting to belittle The Journal? Occasionally he will mention something about the Register but this cover-up does not fool me—his intent is obvious.

Is it because, as some have told me, he is a personal friend of the editor of the Register, or is it because, as is talked about now and then, the Register has some financial interest with Berry?

I admit my curiosity has gotten the best of me. I have even imagined the Register owned Berry's Independent.

One of your loyal readers.

BRONX CHEERS

To the Editor: I've long suspected that the congress contained some of the prize nit-wits of the age, now I'm sure of it. One of our distinguished representatives, Virginia Jenckes, Democrat from Indiana, proposes to cut down the beautiful cherry trees which greatly enhance the attractiveness of the nation's capital—all because they were given to us by the Japanese government 30 years ago. For her stupidity and narrow-mindedness three rousing Bronx cheers.

The writer is not a Japanese sympathizer, but sees no connection between a gracious gift, presented to this government, when there was a better understanding between nations, and the present Sino-Japanese conflict.

With members wasting valuable time on such silly, idiotic proposals, is it any wonder that congress is accomplishing next to nothing of a constructive nature? GRAFTON SANDERSON.

NEW YORK.—Purely personal piffle: Nothing makes me feel more at home than a loud ticking hall clock. When I think of Bob Ripley living in the splendor of an island castle and roaming the world at will I recall his early days and what one fellow did with an idea. And don't worry about Youth's chances.

Only Rodgers and Hart tune I never liked: Johnny One Note. As a parlor trick I'd like to jabber away in that fake French like Charlie Judels. Best of the mots when the Windsors gave up their trip to U. S.: John Chapman's "And so to Bedaux!" Prediction: Next big headlines Russia's economic crack-up.

Favorite of the Amos 'n Andy characters: The Kingfish. "The Song of India" sets me dreaming of a long travel expression. I've can kid the other fellow with a straight face like Harry Staton, the syndicate man. Animal suffering makes me ill, with a temperature and everything.

When the household wants to see me beam, they announce beat on round steak with cream gravy for dinner. Not more than a half dozen O. Henry stories really fascinated. The rest always struck me as second rate. I like to hear the radio's "Prof. Quiz" shout: "You are absolutely right!"

The only Algebrin I ever knew was a hostler in a small town livery stable. And a fellow packed with odd information. Such as coriandro was originally a royal cloth for the farmers. Count du-roi. The most bored person I ever seen were in the boxes at the Metropolitan. At one time I was the reporter on a country daily, galley usher in the local opera house and on Saturday passed handball for my aunt's millinery shop to the farmers. Count du-roi. The most bored person I ever seen were in the boxes at the Metropolitan. At one time I was the reporter on a country daily, galley usher in the local opera house and on Saturday passed handball for my aunt's millinery shop to the farmers. Count du-roi.

For no reason at all there are three people at whose approach along the street I side up to wind-dows as though greatly interested until they pass. Gen. Hugh Johnson is whipping over the nearest glove-fitting phrases among the daily scribbles. Our town had the perfect novel name for a bartender—Tony McHale. The most faithful employee ever known was two who tipped hats to male ex-players. Rudest people in New York: The ermined crew at first nights. My all-time favorite dig at restaurant prices is Bugs Baer's cry: "Walter, my check and a fright wig!"

It was to get the fun out of life at 60 that Daniel Frohman seems to get in his 80's. Frank Case is the only hotel man left who dines among guests in his own dining room. Newest symbol of feminine luxury: Those white fur evening coats. Cholly Knickerbocker is one scribbler who chatters as entertainingly as he writes. My greatest fits of depression are invariably around six in the evening.

Cantaloupe is the only food I cannot digest easily. Mrs. Walter Chrysler is one scribbler of the haired smart dresser. Shyest movie star ever met was Joan Crawford. Or she was putting on a swell act. H. G. Wells is sousing his public with his windiness. I've tried this year to like football, but am still apathetic. Eugene O'Kins, jr., is another with Bob Edgren's gift to do a swell job of writing as well as drawing sports. Mitzi Green is proof that all "wonder kiddies" do not fade into obscurity with maturity. I've known but one person who could explain what eyebrows are for.

Easiest current model for the caricaturists: John L. Lewis. But none tops Ding's jutting-jawed limning of F. D. R. I can think of nothing so dismal as the Windsors with 20 is the power story. I've suddenly forced to cancel the trip. That would almost topple me off the water wagon. For many years I thought traveling incognito meant a private railroad coach. Gabriel Heatter's "And a man named Soans" is one of the few radio repetitions that never bore.

Frederic Lonsdale wore the most attractive necktie I ever saw—a black silk foulard four-in-hand with one single vertical half inch pink stripe through the loop. Fame: Three secretaries of close friends address me as Ol McIntyre. But there was a kick in getting without delay a postcard Gene Fowler mailed in Palestine bearing only this: "O. O. America."

When a waiter starts pouring chocolate sauce over my ice cream I contrive to look the other way so he will keep right on pouring.
